Dutch Birth Control
How to Cut Cost
Blame Yourselves

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

America will be interested in the announcement that many of our earnest, hard-working, intelligent, neat and valuable Dutch friends are planning to come from Holland and settle in the United States.

Wherever they settle, the country is the better for having them.

These Dutch immigrants will bring with them a feature of life new to this and most countries.

In Holland, now, "birth control" is not only permitted, but encouraged. The government itself investigates methods of birth control, limiting of families according to individual choice, and methods by which unwilling maternity may be prevented.

The world in general views with horror the suggestion that prevention of birth under any circumstances should be considered other than criminal.

The Dutch government says: "There is no more reason for compelling a woman against her will to undertake the care of another child than for compelling a man to undertake charge of another factory or another business."

In nearly all countries, including this, government puts in jail anybody giving birth-control instruction. In Holland, on the other hand, government makes it its business to supply that instruction.

And, most strange, the Dutch point to the fact that in Holland, where birth control is permitted and encouraged, population is increasing, whereas in Spain, where birth control is most bitterly detested and absolutely forbidden, population diminishes.

The Dutch theory is that babies live when welcomed and wanted, and that population will be built up more rapidly, soundly and permanently by welcome than by unwelcome children.

On this question, interesting to the United States, important information and views will be obtained undoubtedly from the Dutch immigrants that soon will come in crowds.

New York State sets a good example initiating legislation that will compel life insurance companies and savings banks to lend their money on home-building mortgages at a fair rate, in preference to hunting for tempting outside speculative investments.

The little people in the homes, fathers and mothers, build up life insurance companies and savings banks and pay the salaries of their officials.

Big mail order houses, whose business runs into the hundreds of millions, have cut prices in their catalogues, and apparently there is some reality in a lower cost of living.

All business men are interested in every possible reduction. They are interested also in making the cuts as far as possible via the lower prices of commodities rather than in the price of labor.

Henry Ford sets a good example in cutting the price of his product without reducing wages paid to his workmen. His position in industry is exceptional, perhaps, but not more exceptional than his willingness to give up profit actually amounting to at least two hundred million dollars a year, which he has deliberately cut off without cutting wages.

Japanese gentlemen in Tokio protest against "American militarism" and "a threat from the Pacific." The Japanese misunderstand us.

There is no "American militarism," but there is a United States with a closed door on our shore at the Pacific. This country intends to keep it closed and to maintain the necessary number of ships and the men to make the door safe.

Burglars would sound foolish if they passed resolutions denouncing the lock on another man's door.

It is the modern Japan that you see reflected in these meetings demanding the right of "racial equality" on behalf of those that before the days of Perry considered themselves possessors of absolute racial superiority.

A glimpse of ancient Japan comes when you read of a Japanese naval lieutenant. He allowed official papers to be stolen from his trunk and thereupon committed "Harakari." This means that, humiliated by his mistake, he loosened his clothing, took a short sword and ripped up his abdomen, releasing the contents and his spirit at the same time.

The strike of street car workers in Brooklyn, one of the biggest on record, has collapsed. The men are quoted as "disgusted with the union and wanting no more of it."

In this case the men should be disgusted, not with the union, but with themselves, for breaking their agreements.

There can be no "collective bargaining," which is what unionism means and demands, unless both sides of the bargain stick to it. The national head of the street car men himself said that when he men went on strike they broke their agreement and violated their own union rules.

GENERAL CUT IN PRICES

Secretary Alexander Expects Sharp Decline Following Action of Ford and Others

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A general decline in commodity prices was forecast today by Secretary of Commerce Alexander as a result of the announcement of price reductions by Henry Ford, the Franklin Auto Company, and New England cotton goods manufacturers.

Alexander believes that the sharp cut made in these commodities is only a forerunner to a general decline in prices.

"The people of the United States have the money and are willing to spend it, but they have reached the point where they are demanding full value for the money they spend," said Mr. Alexander.

"Production will not be affected and buying will be stimulated by the decline in prices."

The fact that the first cuts came from the manufacturers has strengthened the belief that lower prices will become more general. A drop in woolen goods, clothing and shoe prices is forecast for the immediate future.

Failure of the Federal reserve board to extend credit for the storing of foodstuffs is expected to bring down prices in the sale of the crops from the present harvest.

Prices have begun to hit the toboggan, according to reports which reached the Treasury Department.

"Industry will not reach its pre-war status for many years," said Secretary Houston, discussing further price recessions.

"The belief is that these recessions will be gradual rather than sudden. In many lines the price cuts may be as sharp as those already noted, but the reductions may not be made in wholesale fashion.

"Industries cannot longer maintain their profits at unreasonable levels. The buying public, refusing to pay exorbitant prices, is in part responsible for price reductions that may be expected."

Reports from reserve banks show manufacturing plants in the larger producing centres are greatly overstocked as a result of cancellation of orders, and the slowness of merchants to put in new orders.

JEWELRY THEFT IN SPRINGFIELD HOTEL

Springfield, Sept. 24.—Jewelry valued at from $3,000 to $5,000 and a sum of money were stolen from the suite at the Hotel Kimball occupied by William H. Wanamaker of New York and his daughter, Isabella. The Wanamakers are staying here during the Eastern States Exposition, in which they have exhibited many blooded horses.

Wins $9,000,000 at Baccarat Table

London, Sept. 24.—The heaviest baccarat winnings of the century, totalling nearly $9,000,000, have been gained by Manfinal Du Mesa, a Cuban sugar planter. His gains have served for him in Europe the reputation of being the world's greatest gambler.

His extraordinary run of luck started in Deauville early in August. His gains there were $700,000. At Aix-les-Bains, where he gambled with increased stakes and daring, out of his Deauville winnings, he increased his winnings by $8,000,000. At Biarritz he added $8,000,000 by a phenomenal spring of luck.

At each table Mesa selects an unpublished private bank, whose resources are unknown. It usually is declared for one or two special coups. He says that his brain is most clear and that he thinks fastest when gaming for big stakes.

PONZI ALONE IN DEAL, SAYS GIRL

His Former Secretary Identifies Letters That Reveal He Had No Partners

Charles Ponzi, accompanied by his wife, listened to the testimony of his former secretary, Miss Lucy Meli, at the resumed referees' hearing in the Federal building today.

Ponzi was taken from the East Cambridge jail with the consent of his counsel that he might be questioned by the referees in their efforts to secure further information regarding his assets.

Cross-examined by Attorney Samuel L. Bailen, counsel for John R. Dondero, Miss Meli identified letters written to the Department of Banks and Insurance of New Jersey, the Passaic National Banak, Passaic, N. J., and the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations. These letters were introduced to show that Ponzi had no partners.

Miss Meli further testified that John S. Dondero had nothing to do with the correspondence of the Securities Exchange Company and that he never attempted to give orders. The witness declared she believed in the past and still believes that Ponzi was the whole company.

SEIZE 630 QUARTS OF WHISKEY AT ANDOVER

Andover, Sept. 24.—Six hundred and thirty quarts of Kentucky whiskey, in sealed bottles, were seized by police today in the cellar of the residence of Daniel Harrington in Flint court, off Elm street.

The liquor was discovered by Lawrence police, who had trailed a motor truck carrying thirty-five willow baskets from that city to the Harrigan home.

Sylvester McGovern, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of illegal transportation.

MacSWINEY IN GREAT DISTRESS

York Lord Mayor Suffering Extreme Exhaustion; Priest Guard Closer

BULLETIN.

London, Sept. 24. — The guards round Brixton prison, where Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, is in the forty-third day of his hunger strike, were quadrupled today. Reserve policemen were on duty for the first time. Arthur O'Brien, who visited MacSwiney at 1 o'clock this morning, said: "Terence is suffering great exhaustion. The severe pain in his head have returned. He is in the utmost distress."

London, Sept. 24.—The government moved today to end police terrorism in Ireland. A military inquiry into the sacking of six Irish towns is under way. Those responsible for the shooting of towns and the conflagrations will be punished, whether they were policemen or soldiers" it was announced by the Irish office.

"It is believed that the best methods of conducting order will be quick action on information furnished by the secret service agents."

Dublin and elsewhere as a result of the increased activity of the "Black and Tan" policemen.

Quiet prevails at Belfast. The Irish Secretary for Ireland, on develop scheme by which an equal number of Protestants and Catholics can be armed, the people will recognize the integrity and impartiality of the movement and subscribe to it.

One of the chief causes for alarm now is the possibility that MacSwiney some of the hunger-striking Sinn Fein prisoners in the Cork jail may die, precipitating more violent disorders than any which have yet occurred in Ireland. Threats of strong reprisals are being made openly by the Sinn Fein. Troops and policemen have been massed at strategic points in Ireland.

Chicago Joins in Home-Lunch War on Restaurants

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Chicagoans are dragging the old tin lunch buckets off the pantry shelves, filling them with sandwiches, cake, pie, apples, etc., direct from the family larder and carrying them to work as part of a determined campaign to force restaurants to reduce their prices.

Russel J. Poole, secretary of the High Cost Committee of the City Council, predicts that the "Bring your lunch" movement will force restaurants to lower their prices 50 per cent.

Meanwhile city officials are planning criminal prosecutions of profiteering restaurant men.

GAS PIPE CUT; 9 IN PERIL

Thieves Try to Steal Meter in Salem; Two Persons Overcome by Fumes

Salem, Sept. 24.—Thieves anxious to remove the coin gas meter at No. 14 Beckett street, this city, nearly caused the death by asphyxiation of nine persons in the building today.

The lead pipe feeding the meter was chopped with some sharp instrument, apparently an axe, and the fumes filled the three floors above. Mrs. Bertha Gordon, who conducts a store on the first floor with living quarters in the rear, and her four-years-old daughter, Esther, were in a semi-conscious state when found.

Wladislaw LeVindowski, who with his wife and five small children occupy the upper two floors, discovered the building filled with gas fumes. All the other occupants of the building were asleep.

Investigating the source of the gas he discovered Mrs. Gordon and her daughter in a comatose state on the first floor. He carried them to the rear yard and then returned for his own family. Two of his children had also been made unconscious by the fumes, but revived when taken from the house.

Superintendent Tudbury of the Salem Gas Company said today that the break could not have been caused by pressure. It would not have been necessary, however, he said, for thieves to chop the piping in order to make way with the meter. Salem police are investigating.

ERIC PAPE WEDS ALICE BYRNE

Artist and Actress Who Was His Pupil Marry Secretly in New York

Word has been received here of the marriage of Eric Pape, artist and cosmopolitan, with a home at Manchester-by-the-Sea, to Alice Byrne, actress and author, of New York.

The marriage took place secretly at the Little Church Around the Corner, Rev. Dr. Vincent C. Lacey officiating.

The bride was a pupil of Mr. Pape and has studied also at the New England Conservatory of Music. She is a proficient dancer, has written a number of successful books for children, and is now engaged in writing the lyrics for a musical comedy to be produced next season by Wendell Phillips Dodge.

She has appeared in several musical comedies and dramatic productions, among them "The King of Nowhere," with Lou Tellegen.

Mr. Pape will be fifty years old on October 17. He was born in San Francisco and has lived in England, France, Germany, Mexico and Egypt. He studied art in Paris, has been art director in the Corcoran Art School, Boston; founded the Eric Pape School of Art, and has exhibited pictures in the Paris Salon, at the Paris Exposition and many other famous exposition. He has illustrated many well known books and been associated with various dramatic productions.

This is his second marriage, his first wife, Alice Monroe Pape, having died in 1911. He and his bride will make their home at Manchester.

JOHNSON CHARGES BLACKMAIL PLOT

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Crooked gamblers paid Chicago White Sox players $100,000 to lose the 1919 world series to the Cincinnati Reds, according to charges today by "Rube" Benton, pitcher for the New York Giants.

Benton, star witness before the grand jury investigating charges of graft and blackmail in organized baseball in 1919 and 1920, said he was told of the deal by a man named Hahn, agent for the Pittsburgh syndicate of sporting men that "fixed" the series.

Coming on top of sensational allegations to the same effect by President Ban B. Johnson of the American League, Benton's revelations fell with the force of a bombshell among the baseball magnates and their financial associates.

Johnson not only declared the 1919 series was "fixed," but charged that same gamblers were for betting purposes forcing the White Sox to lose the league pennant this year. He said they were blackmailing White Sox players by holding the 1919 deal over their heads.

White Sox stars "named" by Hahn, the betting commissioner, according to Benton, were:

EDDIE CICOTTE, first string pitcher, who pitched the first game of the last year's series.

CLAUDE WILLIAMS, who pitched the second game.

CHICK GANDIL, first baseman, next year of strength to the box by his knowledge of "inside" baseball.

CONSUMERS DEMAND FIXED COAL PRICES

With the State on a three-ton per family ration and the Governor's special committee working to relieve the present grave scarcity in the hard coal supply, consumers today were puzzled by the differences in retail prices that prevail all over Massachusetts.

State Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hultman, who is also chairman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, says he isn't concerned just now in the coal prices, but householders claim to be as much concerned about the price as they are about the serious shortage in the grades of coal used in kitchen ranges and in family furnaces. Consumers also point to the number of empty family coal bins.

Consumers appeared today to be of the opinion that with retail prices already indicted in unprecedented figures the State committee should do something about fixing a fair maximum price on hard coal.

$16 TO $21.50 A TON.

The retail prices for the same grades of coal ranged today in this State all the way from $16 a ton delivered to $21.50 per ton and the public is asking why.

State Fuel Administrator Hultman advanced an alibi in behalf of coal dealers, who are demanding more than $20 a ton for hard coal. He said they were compelled to do so because they bought from independent operatives at the mines, paying as high as $18.50 and $16 per ton, and that to this they had to add "the freight tariff of $4 to $4.50 a ton and $2 more for labor in distribution.

But Hultman's alibi did not account for variances of from 50 cents to $2 a ton by dealers in Greater Boston who are reputed to get their supply from the same large operatives. There is a growing sentiment today that a special coal commission ought to probe prices at once and have them adjusted by the time the hard coal supply begins to arrive in normal quantity again, it was charged.

HUNDREDS WITHOUT FUEL.

In Sharon a dealer demands $23 a ton for hard coal, stove or furnace. In Wakefield, where more than 1,200 families are reported to be without a pound of coal in their cellars, dealers are asking $17 a ton, which on its face could not be warranted by the price offered for the dealers who buy from independent coal purchasers, it is claimed.

In Holyoke stove coal was bringing $16.75 and pea coal $14.75. The same grade was selling today for $15 a ton. In Maynard hard coal was selling at from $16.50 to $18 a ton and a third dealer was letting it go for $17, showing a conflict in price in a single community which consumers consider unjustified. It is this divergence that promotes suspicion and dissatisfaction, say householders.

In Salem and Peabody hard coal was selling at $16, the same as in Canton. Towns along Cape Cod are reported to be suffering from a fuel famine. There have been no hard coal shipments down that way for June, it is said, and housekeepers are sadly alarmed.

The one thing that the Governor's coal committee wished to impress upon the public was not to become alarmed or "panicky" over the present shortage, which, it was said, could soon be relieved, whereas hysterical demand would simply boost the prices higher.

FOR BAY STATE FIRST.

When asked by reporters, after the committee's conference with Governor Coolidge, if he had heard anything about the fuel conditions in other New England States or would work in co-operation with officials in neighboring States, State Fuel Administrator Hultman said:

"I don't give a hoot for the rest of New England."

Hultman made it clear by his statements that the first problem to be solved by the coal committee was the scarcity in the hard coal supply. He said it might take several weeks to replenish the stocks of dealers throughout the State, but like the coal dealers who make up the committee, he felt assured that the hard coal supply would be normal before cold weather set in.

All the members of the committee blamed the miners for the present shortage of hard coal in Massachusetts. They said the miners' so-called "vacation" came just as the railroad embargo had been lifted and when the rails were clear for shipments to New England. They further pointed out that the walkout had lasted three weeks and that during that period of idleness the hard coal supply was diminished several million tons. President Edward Hamlin of the Metropolitan Coal Company said that fully 5,000,000 tons of hard coal might have been mined in the three weeks that the miners laid off.

$45 TO $90 IN EUROPE.

The members of the coal committee declared the present shortage here was not due in any way to coal exporting, although in certain circles there were rumors in circulation that greedy operatives were shipping large quantities of hard coal as well as soft coal to European countries, where fabulous prices were being paid. It was rumored that hard coal mined in the United States was bringing as high as $45 a ton in certain parts of France and as high as $90 a ton in Sweden and Norway.

State Fuel Administrator Hultman pointed out that rumors of heavy coal exports were contradicted by the trade. He said the only hard coal sent out of the country in any amount was to Canada, and that shipments there this year had been normal. He said soft coal exports had been curtailed and deliveries to New England had become normal, thanks to the priority clause recently suspended because of the favorable bituminous conditions now prevailing in New England.

Britons Supervise U. S. Patriotism

(Copyright, Keystone View Company)

These eight members of the British Sulgrave Institution have just arrived in this country to see that America carries out the program of patriotic exercises arranged for it in England by British and British-Americans in honor of the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims, as told in a series of exclusive articles in the Boston American, which unmasked the British domination of the recent celebration at Provincetown. This party has had President Wilson's official yacht, the U. S. S. Mayflower, placed at its disposal. It will oversee the celebrations in northern New York, Jamestown, Va., and Washington, arrangements for which have been made by the Sulgrave Institution, according to its own claims. The members of the party here shown are:

Back row, H. S. Ferris, chairman of the British Sulgrave Institution; G. W. McKinley, Colonel W. Edwards, D. S. O., M. C.; Stanley Uda[illegible], Anglo-American Society. Front row, Sir A. E. Shipley, vice-chancellor Cambridge University; Lord and Lady Rathcreeden, Admiral Sir Lawther Grant.

BALL PENNANT PLOT CHARGED

Johnson Claims Gamblers Are Attempting to Blackmail Chicago Players

"HAP" FELSCH, heavy hitting centre fielder.

ANOTHER MAN, whose name the Giant pitcher could not remember.

He said the names of the players not mentioned in connection with the questionable deal included those of Eddie Collins, John Collins, Ray Schalk, Joe Jackson and Buck Weaver.

It developed today that George M. Cohan, theatrical producer, and Monte Tennes, Chicago gambler, were to be summoned by the Grand Jury. It is understood they lost $110,000 between them on the series. Cohan is said to have convinced himself by a private investigation that the series was "fixed."

Benton insisted he would make good his charges before the Grand Jury when he was re-summoned.

He said Hahn made his revelations while they were hunting together in North Carolina, Hahn lives in Cincinnati.

"Hahn surprised me by telling me the series was not on the square," said Benton. "He told me various White Sox players visited the betting syndicate in Pittsburgh and demanded and got $100,000 for 'laying down.'"

President Johnson in his bitter arraignment of the crooked players alleged to have thrown the series in 1919, said an investigation was started last Fall. The World Series checks of eight Sox players were held up pending the outcome. Among the number, he intimated, were Cicotte, Gandil and McMullen.

Johnson was recalled to the stand today. "Buck" Herzog was also expected to testify. He has asked to be heard in answer to charges made against him by Benton.

Samuel W. Pass, a Chicago manufacturer, who claims to have lost $3,200 on one of the games "fixed" by the "handbook" men, and William L. Veeck, president of the Cubs, also were before the grand jury.

After Veeck was excused the tribunal adjourned until Tuesday.

Before entering the grand jury room, "Babe" Ruth told newspaper men the details out of which his charges of crooked baseball grew.

"On the evening before the Cubs-Giants game of 1919 was played," he said, "Buck Herzog, Hal Chase and myself stopped in Stillson's cafe at Madison and Dearborn streets. Both Buck and Hal asked me if I wanted to make some 'easy money.' No amount was mentioned by either.

"I asked them what they meant. They said they wanted to see the Cubs win the game scheduled with the Giants for the following day and told me it rested entirely with me. They said I could throw the game, if they could count my pitching. Of course I refused even to consider the proposition. Then Herzog left us and Hal and I went to a hotel.

"The Giants won that game by a score of 6 to 5. I pitched harder to win that game than any in my career as a baseball player.

"After the game, Heinie Zimmerman met me and said: 'You poor fish, don't you know there was $400 waiting for you to lose that game today?' I didn't reply. He had been suspended the night before we played.

"I spoke of this incident to Fletcher last Fall and to no one else until this Spring, when I told Manager McGraw.

REFUSES TO LIMIT FREE SPEECH IN PEABODY

Peabody, Sept. 24.—Although Mayor S. Woward Donnell urged the City Council to adopt an ordinance that would give municipal authorities greater control of public gatherings, the councilors declined to do so without a public hearing. The Mayor would forbid rallies and public meetings unless a permit had been obtained from Mayor or chief of police. The need of such regulation, he told the council, was brought to his attention last Tuesday night when he heard Bolshevism advocated at a street rally.

RODGERS DENIES MURDER CHARGE

Counsel Expects to Establish Alibi for Man Held for Killing His Stepdaughter

Charles H. Rodgers, stepfather of Dorothy Rodgers, pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering the child when arraigned before Judge Hayden in Roxbury Court today. On request of John Schenk, his attorney, the case was continued until October 7 and Rodgers was committed to Charles street jail.

Pale and trembling, the mother of the murdered child left the courthouse on the arm of Captain Perley D. Skillings of the Dudley street police station. In his automobile she was taken to the City Hospital morgue, where plans were made for the burial of the child. It is believed that sympathetic persons have come to her assistance and insured a Christian burial for the baby.

Mrs. Rodgers had spent the time taken for the arraignment in the office of the probation officer. She was dressed in heavy mourning and cried continually. She did not enter the court room proper.

IS MARRIAGE A SUCCESS? IF SO, WHY? IF NOT, WHY?

VIEWS OF READERS SOUGHT

Experiences or Ideals of Wedded Life to Form Symposium in American's Columns

Readers of the American are invited to discuss in this newspaper the question, "Is Marriage a Success?"

There is no question of giving up marriage. It is a sacred institution, the salvation of mankind, the hope of the future. All progress and civilization in the past have been built up on it.

Marriage, like eating and breathing, is an absolutely permanent institution that will not leave the earth until the last man and woman leave it.

If there were only one man and one woman left on earth, the woman would insist on marriage anyhow, fearing that another woman might come later to interfere with her monopoly. And the man would insist on marriage, saying "Some other man might arrive, and I want you all to myself."

To what extent has the war changed the attitude of men and women toward marriage?

The papers have told of wives that lost interest in their husbands while they were away, of husbands that found home dull when they returned from excitement across the seas.

The United States government announces that the birth of babies fell off 38 per cent. during the last six months. Was that due to the high cost of milk and the impossibility of renting an extra room for an extra baby? Or are marriage and a big family becoming less interesting for other reasons?

A "DOCTOR OF MARRIAGE?"

Marriage, like eating and breathing, is permanent and necessary, granted.

When we discuss eating, we discuss food, and its varieties.

If digestion is bad we ask a doctor to tell us what's the matter, and he changes our diet. No doctor can change the diet in marriage, for that is illegal and immoral, but there might be a wise "doctor of marriage" to tell what is the matter, and eliminate the trouble, without changing the marriage diet.

Why must the trouble go on, treated as a hopeless case, until it is taken before the public executioner, the divorce judge?

Do we take marriage too lightly?

Why the cynical view of marriage prevailing in America? Why do we have songs with the refrain "My Wife Won't Let Me" and "My Wife's Gone to the Country, Hooray!"?

It is partly because all human beings are imperfect. Marriage is often based on the delusion that the perfect being has been discovered. After delusion and illusion come disillusion, and, after that, bitterness, and sometimes divorce.

Religion, most usefully, teaches resignation, but some will not be resigned. They demand improvement.

Please write in your opinions, experiences and suggestions, addressed to "The Marriage Editor," Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass.

Here is one letter, opportunely received from a reader who did not know the subject was about to come up for discussion.

FROM A VERY SAD WOMAN.

Dear Friend:

I address you this because your column is one of my best enjoyments. I would really like to know your thoughts on what I am going to ask you. Is history going to repeat itself and are women going back into slavery?

We all know the looseness of morals in modern society and also in other walks of life as well.

Today very few women have their husbands to themselves, in spite of hundreds of years of Christian training, and prayer and endeavor.

Women who imagined they had married the one good man, find him in one entanglement after another, with both sick and brain reeling they stick to their job and bring up their children and teach them principles of truth and virtue, which they know in their hearts will all be knocked in the head when the child reaches maturity.

Which do you think is the better, for a woman to suffer in silence for years, for the sake of her children, or leave her husband and expose him and get a few years of peace?

Are society and all our laws or morals quite marriage wrong? I'll grant it is the birthright of every child to be born of love, but this principle carried out according to the way the men look at it would leave no pure family life and lower man to the level of the beast.

Have good women got to carry the whole burden and fight the whole battle?

(Signed) S. O. S.

Please do not publish my name or address. I would be drawn and quartered.

When you turn over a stone or a log in the field, you are amazed at the strange things running around in the damp earth below in the dark.

If you could turn over the heart of strange women and look underneath, you would see things just as queer and startling in the darkness and secrecy in which every woman keeps her secret feelings hidden.

ONE COMFORTING ANSWER.

Here is one short answer:

Madam:—Women do not all find happiness in marriage now. But many of them do find happiness, many more find peace, and women as a rule find in marriage, and in nothing else, at least partial security from men's brutalities.

You cannot judge of men and of marriage today unless you know what both were in ages past.

There has been steady improvement, and marriage has been responsible for most of it.

The power that has changed men from cannibals to what they are now may eventually change them from what they are now to beings worthy of the blessed marriage state.

Write frankly, briefly and truthfully what you have to say in answer to the question "Is Marriage a Success?" If you think it not all together a success, do not fail to suggest what you think is the remedy. What is the trouble, what could be done? More tomorrow on this important subject. Write frankly and fearlessly—your confidence will be respected. No names of writers published except with the writer's consent.

EDITOR MARRIAGE PROBLEM.

Arthur Somers Roche, the famous novelist, will give his views tomorrow on this important question.

THE WORLD'S GREAT QUESTION

Marriage, THEN what? What is your view of marriage? What has been your experience? Is marriage an absolute success? If not, what is the trouble, what is the remedy? Write frankly to "Editor, Marriage Problem." Here the two stand. What is the answer to the question mark above their heads?

'RED' CIRCULARS IN CAMBRIDGE

"Communists" Accuse Wilson of Betraying Russia and Call for U. S. Revolution

An appeal to workingmen to "answer Wilson's challenge" and overthrow the government of the United States was contained in hundreds of circulars spread through the Italian section of East Cambridge today.

The circulars, issued by "The United Communist Party of America," called on the workers to "stand shoulder to shoulder with the revolutionary workers in all countries in the struggle, and overthrow the capitalist governments and world capitalization."

The circulars declared that the Wilson administration had broken its promises to the "Russian worker and peasant" and was trying to overthrow Russia.

It declared that "a declaration of war against the workers' struggle for freedom was made in a note sent to the Italian government by the Wilson administration."

The document urged all workers to unite and use their power in rebellion, refusing to do any work that might aid in the subjugation of Soviet Russia.

The circulars were thrown into hallways and doorways on Harding, Clore, Bridge, Jefferson and Hunting streets, in the section largely inhabited by packing house employes. It was this section of the city that gave the police considerable trouble during the strike riots a short time ago.

CHILD BEATEN TO DEATH

Seven-Year-Old Girl's Life Was Martyrdom to Foster-Parents' Hatred

Laurel, Del., Sept. 24—Emaciated and undersized from lack of food, seven-year-old Frances Crockett was brutally beaten to death by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, who had made her life a child's martyrdom to a wanton hatred.

This was the verdict rendered by a coroner's jury investigating her death.

Late Wednesday an undertaker was called by the Stewarts to bury their daughter. The child, they told him, had suddenly dropped dead while playing. When the undertaker attempted to examine the body the parents objected. They could produce no doctor's certificate, and the undertaker notified Coroner Warrington, who empaneled a jury of investigation.

Frightened by the undertaker's refusal to bury the child, the parents made plans to bury the child themselves. The coroner was refused admittance, and he had to force his way into the Stewart home. When the clothing was removed from the child the body was found to be literally covered with sores and bruises, due to inhuman treatment received at the hands of the Stewarts, it is alleged by neighbors.

City 'Slicker' Gathers Crop of Dollars

Sterling, Sept. 24.—They can have all the great Sterling cattle shows they want to—next year and the year after and the years after that—but by jiminy crickets they won't get Phil Hazard to go to one of 'em.

Mr. Hazard today told Chief of Police Mcdonald how a city slicker at this year's show gummed him out of eight hard-earned dollars. The more Phil thinks about it the more he is convinced that he didn't have a chance.

There was a fellow down to the show had a pretty booth rigged up where if you threw a hoop over a peg you collected 10 cents. Phil peeled away five dollars and failed to collect a nickel. Then, he says, the fellow got it up to him to try a $5 throw. "Be a sport!" says he. The money was put up and vanished.

Phil had shot his entire $50 roll when something prompted him to lean over and measure one of the hoops against the peg. The goldarned thing couldn't be squeezed over the peg, let alone thrown over it, and Phil let a yell out of him that caused a bomb scare as far away as Worcester.

Well, sir, the police force came up on the double quick, but—believe it or not—the city slicker had disappeared with the booth, the peg, the rings and his entire get-up. What's the world a comin' to?

Wareham, Sept. 24.—A freak of nature is in evidence at the home of Alden G. Bourne at Onset, where white lilacs are in full bloom despite the chilly September weather.

According to the oldest natives this is the first time that this flower has ever been observed in full bloom at any time of the year on the Cape.

BRITISH COAL STRIKE POSTPONED A WEEK

London, Sept. 24.—The Central News states that the Federation of Miners has sent notices to the coal fields suspending the national coal strike order for one week. The strike was to have gone into effect Sunday. A delegation from the Federation of Miners had a conference with Lloyd George at 11:40 o'clock, after which they recommended to the delegates of local unions that the strike order be suspended in order to enable representatives of the miners' Federation to meet the colliery owners in discussions of a new sliding wage scale.

HEALER QUITS SCIENTISTS

Granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher to Continue Practice Outside Church

New York, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Margaret Beecher White, granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher, has resigned her connection with the Christian Science Church and will continue her practice as a healer and lecturer independently.

"I have a message to many who need it, and I want to be free to deliver it," said Mrs. White. "Hence my resignation for the purpose of becoming an independent scientist."

Mrs. White resigned from the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and from the Mother Church in Boston. She had been a practitioner sixteen years.

According to both Mrs. White and members of the staff of Albert F. Gilmore, head of the Christian Science Publicity Bureau for New York State, there was no ill-feeling in connection with the separation. Mrs. White said:

"I feel that the Christian Science organization is narrow in many of its precepts and rules. The trustees will not approve nor will they censure or otherwise act on my resignation. I have letters couched in the friendliest terms from the trustees of my church here."

Mrs. White explained that her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Brods, had resigned from the First Church, but not from the Mother Church, which indicated that she merely intended to transfer her membership.

HIGH U. S. TAXES TO CONTINUE

Secretary Houston Sees No Reduction for Two or Three Years

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 24.—There will be no administration proposal for lower taxes when Congress convenes in December. This decision practically has been reached by Cabinet wheelhorses.

Secretary of the Treasury Houston said today he had not completed his annual report, but thus far the tentative draft contained no appeal to Congress for a decrease in government revenues.

Secretary Houston, after conference with heads of other departments, is firmly convinced there must not be any reduction in receipts for at least two or three years.

SAYS FRENCH'S LOVE COOLED

Mrs. Howard, Suing for $50,000, Submits Ardent Letters From Colonel

Portland, Me., Sept. 24—The transition of Colonel Milton H. French of Thomaston from the role of an ardent wooer to one of absolute frigidity caused her such a shock that her health was impaired and she was compelled to cancel all recital engagements, Mrs. Genevieve Howard of Boston, a Shakesperian reader, testified in her breach of promise suit against the colonel, which is being heard in the United States District Court. She seeks $50,000 heart balm.

Such phrases as "My God, Genevieve, I cannot live without you," used by the colonel, she said, turned to "Our marriage will never transpire. I do not love you," as his affection waned.

"When I told him that he would to ruin my reputation and drag me in the dirt," Mrs. Howard declared, "he said that he had turned other women down many times."

More than twenty-five letters which the plaintiff said she received from Colonel French were read to the jury. In some of them she was addressed as "Genevieve dear" and "My dear."

The last time they met, she said, was the night before the armistice was signed in November, 1918, when, in the Copley-Plaza Hotel in Boston, she said, that the colonel told her he no longer cared for her. Since that time, she declared, she had been under the care of three specialists and had not given any recitals. She had been earning $5,000 would be cut eighteen hours.

Sues Husband to Tell Boy's Parentage

New York, Sept. 24—One of the most extraordinary suits in the history of the State has been filed in the Supreme Court by Mrs. Avice Wheaton Borda, in which she asks that her husband be restrained from bringing up his three-year-old son in the belief that she is his mother and that he be compelled to make known the name of the child's actual mother.

The husband is Wenceslo Borda, once United States Consul to Porto Rico. Mrs. Borda before her present marriage was the widow of Colonel Wheaton.

According to the papers in the suit, a boy was born in November, 1917, of whom Borda was the father. Dr. Ira L. Hill of Madison avenue assisted at the birth, Mrs. Borda declares, and filed a certificate that she was the mother. She declares that he was falsely so informed by Borda.

a year as a reason prior to that time, she said.

Mrs. Howard's son is one of the witnesses called. The trial is expected to close Saturday.

Balfour, aged fifty-three, of No. 8 Marlboro street, Chelsea, was knocked down at Summer and Arch streets by an automobile owned by David Spiros of No. 200 Ashmont street, Milton, and operated by John Spiros of the same address. At the Relief Hospital she was found to be suffering from contusions of the right wrist and left elbow, and went home after treatment.

HOLD 5 ROXBURY MEN FOR THEFT OF TWO AUTOS

Springfield, Sept. 24—Five Roxbury men and a stolen automobile are being held here for the Boston police. The police say some of the party admitted stealing two cars, one owned by D. J. Sullivan of Cambridge, which was wrecked, and the one in which they were captured here. They gave their names as Dona Guillotte, Joseph Murphy, John F. Russell, Martin McCarthy and Thomas Kinney.

SHIDUSAWA URGES JAPS NOT TO ANGER AMERICA

Tokio, Sept. 24—An appeal to Japanese "not to add fuel to the anti-Japanese fire now burning in America" has been issued by Viscount Shidusawa, an eminent financier. He declares Americans loving peace do not desire to strain diplomatic relations to the breaking point. He urges the Japanese to refrain from anti-American agitations.

Viola Dana gives her views on bathing and building health

Viola Dana—now celebrated as a star with the Metro Picture Corporation—won her early fame on the legitimate stage with Thomas Jefferson. Her first success of all came when she appeared as a dancer at the age of five. Throughout her career Miss Dana has been an "out-door" girl—vigorous and skilful in athletics. Her address is Metro Studios, Hollywood, California.

MILLIONS of Americans know and love Viola Dana—the winsome little star of "movie-land."

But how many know Viola Dana—the plucky, athletic girl?

On the tennis-courts of Los Angeles she has been victorious in many matches.

Her airplane carries her frequently over the city and the beach.

In the surf she is known as a strong and daring swimmer.

"People often ask me how I have strength for such vigorous sports after my long hours in the studio," said Miss Dana recently. "But extra energy just depends on keeping fit.

"Long ago I discovered how correct bathing with the right soap benefits the health of the skin and the whole body. I use Lifebuoy Health Soap because its fine antiseptic and delightful, rich lather keep my skin in the pink of condition."

Like Miss Dana there are 2,000,000 others in America who are building up health and strength every day by correct bathing with Lifebuoy Health Soap. They know how its big, generous lather, and mild antiseptic invigorate the skin and keep it always active.

Doctors say that an inactive, "lazy" skin is the cause of much discomfort and poor health.

Why a "lazy" skin is a drag on health

We have all wondered why some people are always complaining about the weather.

On warm days they feel hot and uncomfortable. And in the slightest draft they begin to sneeze and catch cold.

A common cause of these troubles—and of many others—is an inactive, "lazy" skin.

Without proper exercise the tiny muscles of the pores and glands in your skin become weak and flabby.

Then your whole skin grows "lazy." You suffer too much from the heat, and catch cold too easily. In addition, a "lazy" skin is always exposed to rashes and eruptions. The vitality of your whole body is lowered.

Doctors have found that proper bathing will easily restore health and vigor to a "lazy" skin.

Keep your skin active—glowing with health

Already many people have found a simple, pleasant way to keep the skin always healthy, and active.

A bath in warm water with the rich, bubbling lather of Lifebuoy Health Soap—then a cold sponge-off and a vigorous rub-down—

Try bathing with Lifebuoy yourself and see how it leaves you "tingling" with health all over. It gives your skin just the right kind of exercise. That means a clearer, fresher complexion, too—the radiant, out-door look that everyone admires.

Notice, too, the clean, wholesome odor of the Health Soap. It contains a mild antiseptic, that purifies and stimulates the skin. The odor tells you why Lifebuoy is known as the "Health Soap."

Start today to make every bath help build health. Take a cake of Lifebuoy home with you. It is on sale at grocers, department and drug stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP

Ordinary Soap

Lifebuoy Health Soap

Work up the best possible lather in warm water with some ordinary soap. Then try the same experiment with Lifebuoy. You will find that Lifebuoy makes at least 50% more lather.

150% more lather than ordinary soap

Rich, generous lather—half again as much as with ordinary toilet soaps. That's the result of the Red Palm oils in Lifebuoy.

Try the simple test shown above. See for yourself that Lifebuoy forms at least 50% more lather.

Notice, too, the clean wholesome odor of the Lifebuoy antiseptic. The generous lather carries this cleansing antiseptic right down into the pores of the skin. That is why Lifebuoy keeps your whole skin glowing with health.

For the face and hands

More than any other parts of the body, the face and hands are exposed to dirt and grime. They especially require a soap that forms a heavy, creamy lather, which will loosen the dirt, and carry it away.

Try Lifebuoy the next time you wash your face and hands. Notice how much cleaner—how much cooler the rich Lifebuoy lather makes them feel than ever before.

Watch your skin improve

$200 in prizes for letters from Lifebuoy users

Every day we are hearing from more and more Lifebuoy users who are doing remarkable and unusual things. If you or your family are among the 2,000,000 users of Lifebuoy, and have won a prize, or done something interesting, write us a letter describing it and telling why you like Lifebuoy.

We will award prizes of $100.00, $75.00 and $25.00 for the three best letters. Only condition is that you must have been a Lifebuoy user before August 10th, the first day of this contest. Mail your letter on or before September 30 to Dept. P 18, Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

60,000 TO CALL FOR BONUS

Veterans' Parade in New York to Reveal Demand for Reward for Services

New York, Sept. 24.—Saturday, October 16, is to be the day of the great bonus parade — the demonstration that will remind America of its most pressing unpaid debt.

This was the unanimous decision today of chosen spokesmen of more than 60,000 veterans of the war.

One thousand strong, the former service men met in the Hotel Majestic and pledged themselves:

"To begin a demonstration that will galvanize an indifferent Congress into granting compensations to the men who risked their all for their country in the war."

With a cheer the veterans passed a resolution, perfecting a permanent parade committee of fifty and subcommittee of ten to organize the tens of thousands of unattached ex-service men in New York City and vicinity.

REGISTERS TO VOTE ON HER 87TH BIRTHDAY

Worcester, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Charles W. Wilson of No. 13 Blossom street today celebrated her 87th birthday by registering as a voter. While she took no active part in the suffrage movement she says she considers it now the duty of every woman to vote.

SLEEPING CAR THIEF BEGINS PRISON TERM

Michael J. Cassy of Lowell today began a term at State prison of two and a half to three and a half years. He was sentenced at the East Cambridge Court on a charge of stealing $810 from a sleeping passenger on the Montreal express last July.

Loans to Harvard students by the university, to help them through the graduate school of business administration, have been made possible through a gift of $5,000 by Mr. and Mrs. S. Marcus Fechheimer of Cincinnati in honor of their son.

BOSTON GREETS ODD FELLOWS

Thousands Pour Into City for the 100th Anniversary, Which Starts Tomorrow

The committee on registration of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in Massachusetts opened headquarters in the Copley Plaza today to receive the thousands coming from all parts of the country for the 100th celebration of Odd Fellowship in America.

George H. Fuller, secretary of the Grand Lodge, said that everything was ready and all that remained to assure the success of the celebration was good weather.

The first feature of the celbratelon takes place tomorow when members of the Sovereign Grand Lodge and their women guests, with officers of affiliated branches of the order, will make a pilgrimage to Plymouth by special boat.

On Sunday there will be special church services with an illustrated lecture and receptions to the various members of the Grand Lodge. The parade Wednesday will be one of the largest ever seen in New England, plans having been made for 35,000 men and women to take part.

The parade will consist of thirty-two divisions with fifty or more floats. It will be reviewed by Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters and the grand officers. During the week every Odd Fellows' lodge in Greater Boston will hold open house.

RESTRICTS N. Y. BUILDING; QUOTES BAY STATE COURT

The Court of Appeals of New York has upheld a resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York City, dividing real estate into districts and regulating size and height of buildings, as well as locations of trades and industries. The court refers to an opinion of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, submitted to the House of Representatives on May 20, that a bill to limit buildings violates no provisions of either Federal or State constitutions, and is within the police powers of the State.

ARLINGTON LEGION TO PRESENT 'STRONGHEART'

Under the direction of Arlington Post, No. 48, American Legion, "Strongheart" will be staged in the Robbins Memorial Town Hall, Arlington, Thursday and Friday evenings, November 25 and 26. LYNN SHOE MEN STAND FIRM

Refuse Demands of Workers and Plan to Close 75 Factories

Following a meeting between the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' Association and delegates representing the various trades in the several factories, lasting several hours, it was announced that no agreement had been reached regarding the wage controversy.

As a result 75 factories close their doors tonight and 18,000 shoe hands are automatically thrown out of work.

The publicity committee of the shoe workers gave out the following statement:

"... a largely attended meeting of Lo[illegible] it was unanimously voted to stand by the previous vote, that is, not to sign the agreement with the manufacturers until prices and conditions are made satisfactory."

Joint Council No. 1, of the United Shoe Workers, meets tonight in Kika Hall, when the situation will be discussed and an attempt made to bring about an agreement between the manufacturers and workers.

LOST BOY FOUND IN GIRL'S GARB

Watertown Youth, Missing 2 Days, Discovered Attired In Sister's 'Best'

Attired in the garments of his sister, his makeup including two "cootie cages," fourteen-year-old Elwood Nichols, a freshman at Watertown High School, was picked up by the police of that town today.

The boy, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Nichols, of No. 54 Hales road, Watertown, had been missing from home since Wednesday night. Two months ago, after taking a girl's part in a Watertown amateur show, young Nichols was found in costume at Roxbury Crossing.

Yesterday Mr. Nichols asked the assistance of the police in locating his son, and a description was furnished all the patrolmen. Early today Patrolman Henry Doherty came upon a slim young girl, as he thought, loitering in the vicinity of the Watertown car barns.

Unable to obtain a satisfactory explanation the patrolman took his find to the police station where the other officers believed the stranger to be a girl. Mr. Nichols was notified by telephone, however, and on arriving at the station, snatched off the hat of the young "woman." With it came the "cootie cages," and the masquerader was exposed.

Young Nichols, who was taken home by his father, wore a long coat, black silk frock, black silk stockings, dainty lingerie and black pumps.

"Firebug" Baroness Asks Divorce

BARONESS DE BECK.

Bangor, Me., Sept. 24—Hermance Grether, formerly the Baroness De Beck, is anxious to put the Atlantic Ocean between herself and the United States and return to her dear old Paris, she told friends today.

The Baroness, who is serving a year's sentence in the Bangor jail, has applied for a divorce from her latest husband, George LeRoy Nelson, who is in the State prison on an indeterminate sentence of two to four years. The Baroness has a petition for pardon pending before the Governor and expects to be liberated about October 1. With her jail sentence commuted and her marriage annulled, she will be free of the ties holding her to America.

The Nelsons were convicted last May of burning their home in Carmel with intent to defraud insurance companies. Nelson has filed a petition in bankruptcy with $2,145 in secured claims and $4,824 in unsecured. His wife is one of the creditors.

3 AUTOS CRASH IN MANHUNT

Police Upset In Street While Pursuing Thief; Stolen Car Found Abandoned

Three automobiles were piled up in a collision at Devonshire and State streets early today, when a car containing several police officers, pursuing a stolen automobile, crashed into a taxicab, and another machine, containing other officers in the chase, skidded onto the two cars in making the turn.

The crash came as the officers were closing in on the stolen machine after several shots had failed to bring the thieves to a stop.

The driver of the stolen car started from Hayward place in the machine and while speeding up Hanover street refused to stop at the signal of Patrolman Gallant of the Hanover street station.

The officer commandeered a machine, and when he followed the car through Scollay square he was joined by Patrolmen James O'Brien and William Walsh of the Joy street station.

The car is owned by Benjamin Ruthberg of No. 6 Leverett street, West End, and was turned over to him by the police.

600 IN REVERE CALL FOR LOWER CARFARE

More than 600 residents of Ward 2, Revere, attended a meeting in Paul Revere Schoolhouse and protested against the advance in fare on the Eastern Massachusetts. All present signed a petition calling upon the Public Utilities Commission to compel a reduction in fares or to allow the Elevated to take over the lines. The indignation meeting was the fourth public protest in less than a week. Another meeting will be held tonight in G. A. R. Hall.

WOULD HIT LANDLORDS WHO BAR CHILDREN

Albany, Sept. 24—Nathan Straus, Jr., Democratic candidate for State Senator, today called attention to two features of the housing problem so far unrecognized by the legislators. Bills remedying these defects will be drafted and introduced, Mr. Straus said: "Important features of the housing program, which have not been touched upon are the discrimination of landlords against children and the danger of co-operative buying by organizations of uninstructed prospective realty holders. Bills drafted to take care of these problems should be passed at the special session. Landlords should be prohibited from favoring Pekingese pups in detriment to children as occupants of flats."

4 WESTFIELD RAIDS NET AUTO LOAD OF LIQUOR

Westfield, Sept. 24—Four successful raids were made by prohibition enforcement officers and an automobile load of liquor, including moonshine, bonded whiskey, and gin, was confiscated. John J. Holihan, City Hotel; Timothy Mahoney, Woronoco Hotel; and John Minkus, keeper of a grocery store at Mechanic and Thomas streets, were arrested charged with illegally possessing liquor.

Baker Out of Race

Pittsfield, Sept. 24.—J. Arthur Baker, an attorney of this city, has announced his withdrawal as an independent candidate for Secretary of State at the November election.

To Regain a Healthy, Girlish Complexion

If you would have a clear, fresh girlish complexion, one comes of ordinary intermittent wax will aid you in this direction more than shelves full of cosmetics. It produces a natural beauty which is permanent as it is delightful. Completely absorbs a half teaspoonful, revealing the healthy young skin underneath. The work is done so gradually day by day, that no inconvenience is caused. The wax is applied at night, like cold cream, and removed in the morning with soap and water.

Another valuable rejuvenating treatment—this for wrinkles—is to bathe the face in a solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint of witch hazel. The wax, a remarkable action, like smoothing out the lines and "ironing up" the loose tissue.—Advertisement.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it a pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged mucous should open, breathing become easy and the inflamed mucous lining of the throat will be easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

Filene's

A trip through the Filene store will show many, many instances of a return to lower prices!

MILLINERY, for instance, shows an average drop of 25% over last year's prices; fur trimmed suits are possible for the first time in several seasons at $55; velour suits at $35 are reminiscent of days gone by. It is indeed a joy for us to tell you that a woman can this year get a good suit or coat for $35 and that a man can get a suit for $30, of Filene quality.

NOT all prices have come down; it will be years before things are back to normal, if at all, in some cases.

BORAH EXPOSES SHAMS OF ARTICLES 10 AND 11

Lawrence, Sept. 24.—"I do not dislike the English," declared United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho addressing an audience that packed City Hall to hear an address on the League of Nations. "No, on the contrary," he asserted, "I have the most profound respect for the great men of England, especially since I saw what they did to the great men of the United States."

Senator Borah flayed every phase of the league, terming it a "spider's web," and ironically referred to Lloyd George as "our great leader." Thunderous applause greeted his remarks, especially those directed against Articles 10 and 11 of the pact.

The Friends of Irish Freedom, in attendance as a body, cheered the Senator, and a crowd of 3,000 outside the hall, unable to gain admittance, waited nearly two hours to cheer him as he left.

"Consider the strife that today exists in all corners of the old world," said Senator Borah. "They are the identical troubles of centuries ago. They are troubles which do not concern the American people. Think of it; there are twenty-seven wars in Europe today, and thirteen of them were begun by members of the so-called League of Peace.

GIVES U. S. CONTROL TO EUROPE.

"There are four reasons why the league is improper and out of the question:

"1—It is not American. 2—That it is not a league for peace but a league for war, depending wholly upon war to sustain it's fundamental principles. 3—According to the voting conditions the European Powers could control the United States inside of a period of twenty years. 4—At no place and at no time do you people have a voice in the affairs of the league.

"There is no appeal provision. Over its policies you have no control. It is a league of diplomats. It depends upon secret diplomacy and military force to succeed.

"I am not going to attack the league the President of the United States went over to Europe with. I mean the one he brought back with him.

ENGLAND'S WAR GAINS.

"The freedom of the seas was a shining principle for which the President stood. He held it as the indispensable prerequisite of peace and equality. It meant so much for the peace of the world; the riddance of the dominating power of the seas. What happened to it?

"The Premier of England announced to all the world that the freedom of the seas idea would not even be brought to the attention of the league council. That would be settled by England herself.

"As a result of the war England acquired 1,607,053 miles of territory. In that territory there resides 46,000,000 human beings. I do not begrudge England this territory. The five wise men sitting at Versailles took over everything which belonged to Persia but her name.

WOULD U. S. FIGHT PERSIA?

"The way the people of Persia are fighting against this League for their freedom would startle you, but the news is censored before it is cabled. Would you oppose these peoples in their fight? If we join the League that is what we vote to do. If England is unable to satisfy these people why should we be brought into it? If I, for one, were asked to take a view on this phase I would want to ask England first if these people were satisfied."

"Article X. calls for a contract on our part to preserve the territorial integrity of every member of the League. If anything happened, we would be obliged to fill our obligations in contract. We might, it is true, disregard the League and call it a scrap of paper. But could we do that, or would we be willing to break our obligations?

ARTICLE 11 "WORSE STILL."

"Is there any mother here who would sign a contract to have her son go over to Europe to fight ten years hence because, say the Russians invaded English territory? We would have to send our boys, every mother's son would be affected. I would not give the blood of one American boy to see that some nation regarded the territorial integrity of another.

"Article 11 is worse still. Any war or threats of war which also covers a revolution is declared a matter concerning the league and the league shall take any action they may regard fit to preserve the peace. Nine men have the right to say whether or not you go to war. Can you conceive of a more autocratic affair than that?

"They say we cannot go to war without the vote of Congress. Did we ever declare war on Russia? If so, when? Our boys were over in Russia. They hardly got there when they had to fight.

"The council of the league has five members, elected for life. Great Britain has one, so has Italy, France, Japan, and if we go in we will have one vote. The assembly gives England with her possession of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India in all six votes. Six votes to the United States' single vote. Something is wrong. Somebody stayed too long in England."

ANSWERS LEAGUE QUERIES.

The speaker concluded in a discussion of the self determination idea among the smaller countries and the way in which it was lost sight of after the war. The manner in which the representatives of Egypt who went to Versailles were thrown into prison was cited as one of the many outrages of the European pact. Questions on the League of Nations were answered following the address.

Robert S. Maloney, commissioner of public health and charities and Republican nominee for Congress from this district presided.

NEW YORK "WET" AS EVER, CHARGES BIRD S. COLER

Washington, Sept. 24.—Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Welfare of New York, created a sensation at the International Congress against alcoholism by telling Prohibition Commissioner Kramer to his face that New York is as wet as it had ever been and that if the prohibition section of the Internal Revenue Department does not "clean house" at once, the present Democratic administration will go out of office "under the shadow of the greatest political scandal we have ever known in this country."

COX MEN SOUGHT THIRTY MILLION

Expert Testifies to System Devised to Collect From 300,000 Democrats

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 24.—An elaborate system by which one Democratic national committee attempted to collect campaign contributions ranging between $10 and $1,000 each from no fewer than 300,000 individual Democrats was revealed before the Senate campaign fund investigating committee here.

At the conclusion of the session Senator Edge charged that the fund the Democrats hoped to raise by this means equalled, if it did not exceed, the $30,000,000 which Governor Cox accused the Republicans of attempting to accumulate.

RESPONSE WAS NEGLIGIBLE.

Loren C. Talbot, a card index expert, testified that he was employed by the Democratic committee to devise a system by which all the Democrats in the United States who could afford to contribute could be reached. The 300,000 letters, each requesting a specific amount were, he said, sent out under his direction, but, he added tardily: "The response was negligible."

Testimony by Talbot, however, constituted a small part of the revelations as to Democratic campaign methods. Other developments were:

1—That Robert T. Scripps, son of a multi-millionaire publisher, who is supporting Governor Cox in his twenty-one newspapers, testified that both he and his brother were exempted from military service during the war. A letter from Governor Cox suggesting that Scripps be exempted is now on file in the war department. Scripps vigorously maintained the existence of the letter has nothing to do with his support.

U. S. PAID COX MEN EXPENSES.

2—That Harry Lovey, New York moving picture producer, testified that Bernard Baruch advanced $35,000, and stood ready to give $75,000 more, to finance the productions of the "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge," the so-called League of Nations propaganda now being hurried to completion for free presentation in New York and Chicago before election day.

3—That auditors of traveling expenses in the Agricultural Department and the Department of Justice produced vouchers showing that the heads of departments and numerous assistant attorneys-general went to the Democratic national convention at government expense.

Commissioner of Public Education P. P. Claxton admitted that the appearance of editorials in official publications put up by his department "boosting" Governor Cox was wrong. He said it was a "regrettable error." He pleaded that he was not to blame for the appearance, until a few months ago, of league propaganda in School Serve, a surviving publication of the Creel regime.

CONVICT FLEES DEER ISLAND

Officials Report Escape of the Fourth Inmate Within Month From Institution

Officials of Deer Island report the escape of another prisoner, the fourth within a month. Harry Evans, aged twenty-six, was found missing at roll call. It is believed he swam Shirley Gut, reaching the Winthrop shore.

The police have been notified of the escape and a search was started today for the convict.

Face Larceny Charge

Frank Taylor, whom the police claim has a State Prison record, was arrested in a Friend street barroom by Sergeant Donovan of the Hanover Street Station, charged with the larceny of $25.

O'BRIEN TO OPPOSE CONGRESSMAN GALLIVAN

William H. O'Brien, chief of the Telephone and Telegraph of the Public Service Department, has filed papers in City Hall as an independent candidate for Congress in the Twelfth Congressional District. O'Brien will oppose Congressman James A. Gallivan, Democratic nominee without opposition at the State primaries.

George A. Ainsworth filed papers for the Senate in the Eighth Senatorial District, comprising Wards 18, 22 and 23, and Frank M. Kelley filed papers for the House of Representatives as an independent candidate in Ward 12, Roxbury.

FAVORS TAX ON GROSS SALES

Excess Profits and Heavy Surtaxes Damaging Industry, Says Cotton Man

Maplewood, N. H., Sept. 24.—Declaring the present system of taxation to be all wrong, William C. Cornwell of New York urged the establishment of a tax on gross sales at the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers here. He said that the present system was "founded on class and sectional bias."

The excess profits tax and heavy surtaxes are drying up two important sources of the country's progress, he said. Favoring a tax on gross sales, he said: "It is passed along in very small fractions and added through the various processes from the producer of raw material to stage after stage during manufacture.

"The tax accumulates automatically as it proceeds, and is finally paid by the consumer practically without his knowledge, and the additions are so trifling as not materially to affect prices."

He favored the employers' privilege tax, which he explained as follows: "A manufacturer or merchant whose monthly disbursements for wages, salaries or piece work totaled $100,000 would at the end of the month send a statement to Washington, with a check for the amount of his tax. If the tax were 5 per cent, his check would be $5,000, which he would include in his overhead charges and add to the selling price of his product."

'There Will Be No U. S. Panic,' Says Depew

New York, Sept. 24.—"There will be no panic in the United States and the cost of living is coming down."

Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew insists that he is seriously at variance with calamity howlers who predict all sorts of dire things for this country.

"There will not be any panic," Depew said. "The country is on too sound a money basis for that. The cost of living will come down gradually. It will take time. I remember when the Civil War closed. That was in 1865. But the cost of living did not come down to where it belonged until 1878."

MOTORIST KILLED BY FLYING GLASS

Keene, N. H., Sept. 24.—William Murray, Jr., of this town, was killed when an automobile which he was driving crashed with another machine driven by Edward J. Lheureux of Marlboro. Murray's jugular vein was severed by a flying piece of glass and his skull was fractured.

Falls Forty Feet

William Thurston, aged fifty, of New York, is on the danger list at the Carney Hospital, South Boston, with a questionable fracture of the skull and a fractured pelvis. He fell forty feet from a staging at the Edison electrical plant, L street.

DESCHANEL WAS REMORSE VICTIM

Suicide Attempts Ascribed to His Failure to Pardon Condemned Officer

Paris, Sept. 24.—Melancholia, induced by an extraordinarily sensitive conscience, was responsible for the tragic end of the presidency of Paul Deschanel, according to an exhaustive article in the Journal du Peuple.

"President Deschanel's illness," it said, "was directly caused by his noble, rigid conception of justice. Never believing in capital punishment, he felt the blood of an executed person to be on his own head where executive clemency had been refused to a man alleging himself innocent.

LET PARDON BE THWARTED.

"Shortly after his election, the President was petitioned to extend clemency to M. Toque, former colonial administrator condemned to death for treason. During the trial he protested that he was innocent. Deschanel desired to grant a pardon, but was prevented by an administration that insisted on the execution as a matter of principle. Deschanel gave in and M. Toque was executed.

"After the death the attorney of Toque gave the President a memorandum presenting proofs of the executed man's innocent. Remorse for the monstrous judicial error seized Deschanel who lost his appetite, his sleep and his desire to live.

CONSCIENCE, SAY EXPERTS.

"The matter preyed on his nerves until he became the victim of a dangerous melancholia. His falling from a train four months ago was not an accident, but an attempt at suicide. Some time later the President, who had outdistanced his friends in a country tour, was found drowning in a lake. A week before his resignation he was handed out of a canal. Neurologists say the 'mysterious disease' was simply the pangs of conscience, while the entire episode is merely enough proof that dead men can kill."

Malden House Robbed

Joseph Brandano of No. 57 Oakland street, Malden, reported to the police of that city that on Wednesday his home was entered and robbed of two gold watches and a diamond ring.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL AT WAR SHRINE DEDICATION

Washington, Sept. 24.—Assisted by Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore laid the foundation stone of the $1,000,000 shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the Catholic University grounds. The shrine is dedicated to the world war dead.

IRISH PIPERS' CLUB TO BE FORMED IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Sept. 24.—A mass meeting will be held in A. O. H. Hall, Thursday, September 30, for the purpose of forming an Irish Pipers' Club in Worcester. The club will exist for the promotion of Irish music and to further the cause of Irish freedom by arousing interest in the national cause.

Life-Saving Dory to Trail Police Patrol

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 24.—The members of the Manchester police force are to be given instruction in life-saving and first aid to victims of accidents on the waters of the rivers and lakes about the city. An 18-foot dory, carried on a trailer to be attached to the patrol auto, is to be added to the department equipment.

"L" TRAIN STARTS FIRE NEAR RELIEF HOSPITAL

Service in and out of the subway at the North Station was tied up for nearly 10 minutes last night when sparks from the contacts on an elevated train set fire to the ties at a point directly behind the Haymarket Square Relief Hospital. Only slight damage was caused by the blaze, which was quickly extinguished by chemicals.

Ladder 8, Fort Hill square, suffered a machinery breakdown on Kilby street, while on the way to the fire, and is being replaced temporarily by an emergency truck from the Bristol street headquarters.

Big Bicycle Run Is Shown in Film

Doublebreasted Sacks—

They give an "air" because they have an "air" of warmth and distinctive individuality.

Morse Doublebreasted Suits have long been held in high esteem by a certain group of men who know the value of dress distinction.

They know that one, two and three button sack suits lose a part of their individuality through constant wear. A doublebreasted interspersed now and then brings freshness to a man's appearance.

And the number of men who have discovered the advantages in owning a doublebreasted sack suit is constantly growing. It is to meet this demand that Morse has this season devoted special attention to doublebreasted clothes.

Doublebreasteds for Fall—MORSE-MADE—Are Excellent Examples of Morse Workmanship. The Woolens are Especially Selected with Their Effectiveness for Doublebreasted Clothes in Mind, and the Styles are the Cleverest You Have Viewed in Many a Day.

The Price of a Good Suit of Clothes This Fall

As always, it will depend a good deal on where you go to buy it. Some stores pay more for their merchandise than others pay for the same goods. Some are burdened with a larger overhead expense. Some want big profits, while others are satisfied with small ones. All these things are kept down to a minimum here.

The Kennedy stores are the largest spot-cash buyers of Good Clothes in New England, which enables us to buy our goods for less money. Our percentage of overhead expense is the smallest on record, and our margin of profit the narrowest ever known in the clothing business. That's how we can sell you a suit of clothes at nearer the actual cost to produce it than any other store.

You'll doubtless see plenty of prices that are lower than ours, but not on the same grade of goods. We have combatted the high price of clothing with every weapon at our command, but we will not lower our standards of quality. So if you want a suit or overcoat of known high quality, finely tailored, good all through, here's where you can get it at the lowest possible price.

We are showing a tremendous stock of

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL INDORSES "BRING YOUR LUNCH" DRIVE

Noted Champion of Suffrage Praises American's Campaign Against Extortionate Prices in Restaurants

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, known throughout the world as pioneer suffrage champion and writer of ability, has indorsed the Boston American's Bring-Your-Lunch-From-Home club, by means of which this newspaper hopes to smash the high prices prevailing in Boston restaurants.

The beef trust which the American has so gallantly attacked is partly responsible for the high prices in Boston restaurants," said Miss Blackwell in discussing the situation. "One of the principal causes of high prices in restaurants is the control of foodstuffs by a small group in this country.

LUNCH BOX PREJUDICE DOOMED.

"I sometimes carry my lunch and believe it is an economical thing for anyone to do. As I do most of my work at home, it is not necessary for me to eat regularly at lunch rooms. When I do, I know where to go. I go where prices are reasonable.

"At one time in the western part of New York State it was not considered the right thing for a woman to be in business. There was a great prejudice against it. Then a woman from one of the best families began to sell fruits and preserves and the prejudice disappeared. I presume that the same thing is true of carrying a lunch. Many girls would carry them if they knew others did. It is an excellent and economical thing for a girl to do. I approve of it."

Miss Blackwell knows something of the high cost of living as she complained recently to the Mayor's rent and house committee when her landlord, Israel Nesson, increased the rent of her apartment to a figure that she considered exorbitant.

The lunch-from-home movement is gaining steady headway. Stenographers, clerks, telephone girls and factory workers throughout Greater Boston are making a concerted drive against restaurant profiteers by carrying their lunches to work. They are not only getting better food, but are saving time and money.

City Collector Frank S. Deland is one of Boston's leading business men who endorses the plan. "It is a good idea," he said. "There is no doubt that the prices of food in Boston restaurants are high. Why, in a certain restaurant that I have patronized you were formerly cut in four pieces and each piece sold at 10 cents.

"RALLIES" JOIN CLUB.

"Now the pies are cut in five pieces and 15 cents is charged for each piece. The increase is nearly 100 per cent. There is very little service given there compared with hotels where clean napery and waiters are the cost of things. In the restaurant of which I speak the employees joke about the increases and say the public must pay for certain action in which it once figured."

Army of Salvation Army stenographers and clerks at the New England headquarters, No. 8 East Brookline street, have adopted the American idea. They pack a lunch daily and in fair weather go to a neighboring park to eat while sunshine and fresh air get in their good work. Colonel William A. McIntyre, the new commander of the district, thinks no wool of the lunch-from-home movement that he has planned to remodel the top floor of the New England headquarters for use of the clerical employes.

60 CENTS FOR CUP OF TEA.

Major G. Morey, president and treasurer of the Morey-Lord Company, will supply agents, writes the American as follows: "I have been much interested in reading the recent articles in your paper about profiteering restaurants. I think the most ridiculous case I have heard of, and which may interest you, although it is on a small scale, is that of a small roadside tea room between Lynn and Salem. It is called ——— and is in a low, one-story bungalow. They charge 40 cents for an ordinary club sandwich—and 60 cents for a cup of tea, or cup of coffee—which is not especially good coffee, either.

"Three days later, at one of the large, first-class hotels in New York, one of my family, for a pot of the most delicious coffee, containing several cupfuls, paid only 35 cents. People used to think that those New York hotels charged the highest prices in the country, but they seem to be babies in arms beside the tea house between Lynn and Salem."

"Sallies" at Noon Lunch in Park

TUFTS COLLEGE SCHOOLS ENROLL 2,200 STUDENTS

More than 2 200 students registered in the six associated schools of Tufts College located at "The Hill" and in the Dental, Pre-Medical and Medical Schools in Boston. This attendance crowds dormitories and class rooms to their capacities and breaks all previous records, being an increase over last year's figures of 10 per cent. The year opens under the new president, John A. Cousens, of Brookline. College exercises began at once, and chapel opens on Monday, September 27.

Cost of Best Coffee Only Four Cents

Do you pay 10 cents a cup for coffee?

If you do it will interest you to know that the manager of one of the largest and best conducted industrial restaurants in Boston has figured that it costs him 4 cents to produce a cup of the best coffee that can be prepared. Until recently it cost 3 7-12 cents a cup. He uses the best grade coffee and the thickest cream obtainable.

Does the proprietor of the restaurant where you eat use the highest grade coffee? Does he use the best cream? Even if he does supply the best coffee and cream should his profit be 150 per cent.? What do you think about it?

WILSON HAD GOOD REASON NOT TO BOX BRYAN DOWNEY

CHAMPION SUFFERED FROM SEVERE HEAD COLD

By JACK CONWAY.

Johnny Wilson's failure to go through with his bout with Bryan Downey at Canton, Ohio, on Labor Day has called down the wrath of the Boxing and Athletic Commission of that city on the head of the middleweight champion.

The Commission has sent a letter broadcast, in which it charges that Wilson was fit to fight, but refused to enter the ring with Downey on account of alleged trouble with his nose.

In justice to Wilson it should be stated that he has been bothered with a severe head cold which has made it difficult for him to breath through his nose. He did not believe he could do himself justice at Canton and so withdrew from the match. The writer is in a position to know that Wilson's stand is a correct one. He would have boxed if he felt he could have done himself justice.

"Kid" Goodman Should Make Good Referee

"Kid" Goodman, who was recently licensed as a referee by the Boxing Commission, has been discharged from a local hospital where he was being treated. The former ring star is now ready to act as third man in the ring at any of the Massachusetts clubs. He should prove a capable official.

As a fighter, Goodwin had few equals in the lightweight ranks when he was at his best. He clashed with Matty Baldwin, Dave Deshler, Martin Canole, Harlem Tommy Murphy and virtually all the topnotchers of his day. Goodman's bout with Cyclone Johnny Thompson at Billy Pierce's old club in Bowdoin Square was one of the most sensational affairs ever staged in this city. Since retiring from the ring, Goodman has kept himself in splendid physical condition and should be able to step at a lively pace while acting as referee.

Weekly Wrestling Bouts at Scenic Temple

The Commonwealth A. A. has arranged Lou Daro to promote a series of wrestling shows. He has arranged two feature bouts for his opening tournament, which will be staged on October 6. Renato Gardini, Italian champion, will meet Ha mar [illegible] in one match, while in another Jack McGrath of Worcester will have Zulu Havenos as an opponent.

Tillo Opens New Drive for Fame

Henry Meyers informed us today that Frank Tillo is in fine condition for his ten-round bout with Young Quill of Brockton, which will be part of an all-star program at the Commonwealth A. A. Saturday night. Tillo is a sweet puncher, and has a fine chance of upsetting any 135-pound boy in this part of the country. Young Bova, sturdy West End fighter, will have Tommy Farmer of Lawrence as an opponent in another ten-session affair. The third ten-round bout will find Tony Natlan of Brighton swapping blows with Johnny Noonan of Dorchester. This program should furnish a lively evening's entertainment.

Brown and Martin in Armory Bout

The ten-round bout between Harry (Kid) Brown and Vincent Martin which will be held at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night under the direction of the Armory A. A. has aroused a great deal of interest. Both boys have an idea they are coming feather-weight champions, and so are eager to keep on Victory Trail. Brown is a fast, two-handed fighter, while Martin is credited with being the hardest hitting featherweight in the world. The winner will be in line for a frolic with Johnny Kilbane.

Roy Green announces that the Fenway A. A. will be doing business by the middle of next month. Roy has got lines out for several attractive matches. Among other things he is planning to stage a match between Terry Martin and Joe Lynch. The latter is a fine boxer and sharp puncher, while Martin is a warrior of the Battling Nelson type.

Commerce and Revere Meet in First Clash of Year at Tech Field

The schoolboy football season was opened today when Commerce met Revere at Tech Field, Brookline.

Coach Sherlock of Commerce, who has had his charges working out these last two weeks, reports that the team this year is by far the equal of any team that boosted the name of the school.

Coach Lawrence of Revere had several of last year's seven in the line-up today.

Young Kloby will defend his title as New England welterweight champion when he clashes with Nat Siegal of Revere in a ten-round bout at Fenway Park on the afternoon of [illegible]. The match will be staged under the direction of the Fenway A. C., of which Jack F. Mahoney is general manager. Siegal affixed his signature to the articles of agreement the first of the week, while Kloby signed a contract at Lawrence yesterday.

ARMY ELEVEN CONTINUES LIGHT PRACTICE SESSIONS

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 24—The football squad continued its easy going tactics today, refraining from anything like scrimmage work. The group coaching combined Insley and Prichard taking the backs, Dutt, Graves, McEwan and Jones the linemen, while "Benny" Hodge and Tuttle drilled the ends. Stewart was back at his tackle position today.

TIE NOW A POSSIBILITY IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE FLAG RACE

Chicago and Cleveland and Also New York Have Chance to Figure in Great Windup

New York, Sept. 24—The possibility of a tie in the American League race is not remote. Today Cleveland leads the league by half a game over Chicago following the split double header with the Indians yesterday by the White Sox.

If the Sox win both games and Cleveland loses both to Detroit, the Chicagoans will be in a position to tie for the lead by winning one game from the Tigers tomorrow and two with Detroit [illegible]

The Cleveland and Chicago schedules both call for battling with the Detroit and St. Louis clubs to wind up the season

[illegible] will be played in Detroit [illegible] St. Louis by Cleveland [illegible] games tomorrow and two with Detroit [illegible]

[illegible] takes both games [illegible] and Knockout Batty of Fall River did the trick to Battling Peters of Taunton in the third.

SPORT EDITORIAL

Let Them Now Speak Out

GENTLEMEN who have been intimating that they know something of gambling scandals in baseball now have an opportunity to give their information to the world.

A Grand Jury investigation is under way in Chicago.

League officials, ball players and newspaper writers have been summoned to appear before the Grand Jury, and will be requested to tell what they know.

This inquiry should develop whether there is really any fire where there has been so much smoke, or whether a number of people have merely been doing a bit of scandal mongering to give the impression that they are very wise.

All the evidence should be made public.

Baseball belongs to the public. The public is entitled to know what sinister forces threaten the safety of the game.

Another world's series is coming on. Baseball should not permit itself to go into the Fall classic with the odor of last year's series still hanging over it.

Someone knows something, or someone lies.

Let's have the whole story.

SOX—MACKMEN AT IT AGAIN

Both Teams Mark Time for End of Season to Come

[illegible] would show 99 won and [illegible] a thing comes to pass the [illegible] would be out of the running [illegible] and Cleveland would drop two games after the Sox [illegible] then three teams would be tied in a triple tie [illegible] the finish. In event of a tie [illegible] would be left up to the American League, which probably would order a [illegible] between the two clubs to determine the champion.

Never has interest been greater in baseball championship prize. New York [illegible] won a pennant apparently in the National League, but a play by John Burns at second base by Marsh [illegible] game abolished [illegible] was placed on and Chicago won [illegible] pennant.

The same year Cleveland and Detroit were practically tied for the third place in the American League, Cleveland just one game and Detroit won the pennant.

Today all three leaders are in action. Cleveland and Chicago in one [illegible] Cleveland and the Yanks play Washington.

The National League leaders remain idle.

DEMPSEY GETS $100,000 OFFER TO FIGHT IN CUBA

New York, Sept. 24—Senor Ordupal, a Cuban sportsman, who is trying to arrange a championship bout between Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion and Luis Angel Firpo, the so-called Spanish heavyweight champion, cabled Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, repeating his offer of a $100,000 guarantee and 50 per cent of the gate receipts for Dempsey.

He also stated that he is preparing to leave Havana to come to this city for a conference which if satisfactory would lead to his depositing the full amount of the guarantee in a bank in this city. This guarantee would be so deposited that Dempsey could collect it in cash twenty-four hours after the bout was over.

STALLINGS KEEN TO WIN TODAY

Braves' Boss Sends Fillingim to Firing Line; Phils Took Double-Header

Philadelphia, Sept. 24—Manager George Stallings of the Boston Braves does not relish defeat a whit more at the fag end of the season when his team is struggling for the cellar championship of the National League any more than he did in the Gaddonis Springtime when his bunch of trained ath-a-letes were being trailed by seven other clubs of John Heydler's organization.

Wherefore Boss George sent Dana Fillingim into today's battle with strict instructions to pitch the game of his young life and beat those Phils, who gained two full games on the Tribe as result of the encounters of the combats on the initial day of the series.

Cravath Has Visions of Quitting Cellar

"Gavvy" Cravath, who had ideas about emerging from the gloom of the N. L. subway, shot Eppa Jeptha Rixey into the picture, figuring that southpaw slants would be just what the Braves were least expecting and, in consequence, more likely to bring victory to the Quakers.

There was a whole lot of batting, mostly executed by the Phils to enliven the double spasm, in fact rough count established the fact that the safe drives were somewhat more numerous than the paid admission, which was not particularly consoling to Owners Baker and Grant, however much the said binging may have gladdened the hearts of the ball players.

Cy Williams Gets Four Hits in First Game

Cy Williams got four hits "Irish" Meusel and Art Fletcher secured three apiece, while Casey Stengel drove the ball into the bleachers for a home run in the first game, all of which tended to make matters a bit unpleasant for big John Scott, who toiled the entire distance. The Braves did not get nearly as many hits as the Phils in this encounter, but they bunched them so they made so effectively that Delaware Metis was forced to give way to Smith after working five innings.

Williams and Fletcher subsided somewhat in the second encounter, but Stengel increased his safe clouts to three, one of which was another home run, and the Phils defeated the Braves with ease, the latter teams pouting marker resulting from a four run walloping by Pitcher Hugh Mcquillan in the third inning.

Chas O'Emerson

I HAVE more than one million men friends—most of whom I have never seen. They are wearers of Emerson Shoes.

To keep the friendship of all these men I must always give them better values, more wear and comfort, and up-to-date style, than they can find in any other shoes. Otherwise I cannot hope to hold their friendship.

So for over 50 years my ambition has been to deserve the confidence of these good friends of mine. How well I have succeeded you can tell from the fact that my business has increased TEN TIMES in the last seven years.

You never have to worry about values when you buy in my stores. Every shoe is stamped on the sole, first with my trademark which is my personal guarantee of quality, and second with the actual retail price based on net factory costs.

Come in and look over our styles and see at first hand why so many men wear Emerson Shoes. You, too, will be convinced that for style, quality and comfort you get more for your money in an Emerson Shoe than in any other.

Mike O'Dowd Wallops Ted "Kid" Lewis

Jersey City, Sept. 24.—Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion, gave Ted "Kid" Lewis, former welterweight champion, a terrific drubbing in a twelve-round bout. Lewis managed to last the scheduled distance, but was bleeding and groggy when the last gong sounded. The only session in which Lewis took the aggressive was in the third. During the other eleven rounds he was pummeled by O'Dowd.

AMERICAN LEAGUERS HAVE CALL AT SECOND BASE

HOW THE SECOND BASEMEN COMPARE

	Offensive.	Defensive.	Total.
Brooklyn	851	422	1273
Cleveland	883	426	1309
Chicago	922	417	1339

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Brooklyn loses ground heavily in the dope on strength in second base position. No matter how one studies the players who have a chance to get into the big series the fact is apparent that Brooklyn does not compare well with the American League teams.

Against Chicago the Dodgers would be overwhelmed, and even against Cleveland, with weaker hitting in that place, and less attacking strength, the Brooklyn comparison is not encouraging.

But do not underestimate Pete Kilduff in figuring the Brooklyn team. He is not a great ball player, but he is one of those hustling, aggressive, fighting fellows who are at their best in the tight place and must dangerous when the odds are against him. The Kilduffs have been that way since before Brooks were worn with kilts!

In defensive work Kilduff is fast—that is quicker and more cat-like in his movements, and he covers quite as much ground as a large number of second basemen. He is sure on slow hits and not as certain of the fast hard hit ones. Kilduff works fast in double plays—faster at the sacrifice surely.

Compared with Kilduff, Collins, of course, Kilduff does not shine. He must try to overcome the superiority of the White Sox star by sheer nerve and spirit. He has plenty of that, but Collins is a much stronger man at bat and in the defensive game. Collins has always been handicapped in world's series by the fact that the opposing managers always select their pitchers with a view of stopping him and the other left-handed hitters. Brooklyn could not manipulate pitchers in that manner—and Sherry Smith is the only one who could reasonably hope to block his attack.

Against Wambsganss the Brooklyn showing is a little better because Kilduff is not overmatched in hitting in that comparison. He lacks the grace and the finish of Wamby and is not so good a fielding player in general.

I shall, of course, have to amend Kilduff's attacking figures. Those given here are his average against the probable pitchers of three teams. He may hit better or worse against them. He would hit better against the Cleveland pitchers. In figuring complete infields I shall amend the figures, if by that time any team drops out of the American League running.

In the next article I will compare the third basemen—and the figures there are astonishing.

Screen Version Novelized

By Jane McLean.

MRS. HASSACK was well acquainted with the boarding places in the theatrical district. She looked out one outside of the usual course of travel, and, giving an assumed name, paid in advance for a small room in the rear of the house. Prudence cautioned her to go South at once, but the Andrews family still lingered, and a perverse fate urged the mother of Alice Hale to linger also.

It seemed impossible that she could be traced, she had her meals brought to her room on the plea of illness, and she informed the landlady that she was alone in New York and desired to rest quietly for a few weeks.

The landlady was too busy to evolve a mystery out of this simple statement; she had to deal with too many strange people to bother her head about this whim or that. Besides, those who paid in advance were entitled to vagaries. Josephine Hassack, having settled herself in her new home, concluded to lie low. The first day slipped away, and the second, the first week and the second. She began to believe her Nemesis had been thrown off the trail. She became bolder, and at last, heavily veiled, she ventured forth to the same hotel where she had first established herself, to wait the arrival of her long-lost daughter.

Unseen by Alice she saw not only her, but Jimmie and Mabel and Mabel's father. She sat in the big corridor and listened to their talk and craned her senses to learn when and where the marriage was to be celebrated. But she discovered nothing new.

It was in the corridor that Harry saw her, and patiently waiting, exulting in his good fortune, he followed her back to the rooming house and saw her enter.

He resolved she should never again evade him, but he did not feel alarmed, while he was not so foolish as to imagine that he would lay her cards on the table until every one had become a trump, still the early possession of the birth certificate now became the prime object of his life.

That same evening, accompanied by Spike Foley, he rang the bell of his ex-wife's new abode and asked for rooms. Each man carried a suitcase—each seemed perfectly respectable. Each was willing to pay in advance. The landlady assigned them to small rooms on the top floor and forgot them.

Later Spike took a survey of their new quarters. "So she's here, eh?" "Somewhere in the house—down below I imagine," said Harry moodily. "We'll find out—leave it to me," said Spike.

Not Difficult

Indeed it was not very difficult even for him to discover that a middle-aged woman who wanted to be left alone was occupying a room on the second floor—that she liked her meals by herself and that when she did venture forth she was heavily veiled.

The identification of Mrs. Hasdock was too easy to be exciting.

"All we've got to do is to watch," said Harry. "when she goes out I've something to do."

"How we going to know?"

"I read in a book once that God is with the patient," said Heliotrope Harry. "You go to work just the same as usual, Spike; I won't need you. It might—what—you—going to suppose will happen if maybe you can fix it so she won't come—"

So Spike Foley went to work in discovered and Harry sat and watched. Tedious task this would have been once on a time, but now, he had spent two many hours in his solitary cell looking into darkness to mind a trifling few days or weeks of waiting even from the limited vantage point of a hall bedroom.

There was the advantage in being on the top floor, he could look down over the balustrade and see who went out and who came in or he could take out of the window and by craning his neck a little he could see who passed down the steps.

Harry lit a pipe and reconciled himself to inaction. The day will with no sign of Josephine Hasdock. When Spike returned his old pal was almost cheerful.

"She doesn't know we're here, Spike, but she's laying low."

The two men went out one at a time for their meals and no one paid any attention. That is one of the advantages of living in a big city—the neighbors are not curious.

It was from the landlady herself that Mrs. Hasdock learned of the advent of the two new comers on the top floor. Even then she was at first in no way interested, but a chance remark of the garrulous woman caused her to start from her chair.

"One of 'em," said the landlady, "is a distinguished looking gentleman."

Joe nodded. The landlady's idea of distinguished and he's were, she imagined, two widely different conceptions.

Peculiar One

"Yes," she went on, "I suppose all of us has our little peculiarities and I must say his is a funny one"

"I suppose so," Mrs. Hasdock almost yawned.

"I've heard of ladies using perfume but I never seen a man that was smelled up with heliotrope before."

"Heliotrope," cried Mrs. Hasdock, with light in her eyes, "heliotrope—how do you know—why—what's he like," she seized the other by the arm—"how old—the more in?"

"What's the matter?" the landlady was justly surprised, "what's the matter—he's a perfectly respectable gentleman, pays in advance."

Mrs. Hasdock was swallowing hard. "Excuse me," she managed to stammer, "of course, if he wants to use perfume that's his affair."

The landlady looked at her curiously, sensing some mystery. "Come, come, tell me what's the trouble," she urged, more with a hope of learning what had so frightened her roomer than with any desire to help her

Mrs Hasdock laughed nervously: "It's nothing," she said, "forget it. I'm nervous, I guess—don't mind me."

The landlady went out and paused on the landing, shaking her head. "I wonder what's hit her so hard," she muttered. "I'll have to keep my eye on all three of 'em."

To be continued tomorrow.

A Bold Attempt

Training the young idea isn't an jam. Sometimes the young scholars are too smart for the teacher, and then, again, they will seem stupid little animals.

But Miss Gibson believed in sticking to her job. So she began to instruct her class in the uses of the various punctuation marks. The comma and full stop were fairly simple. When she got to the exclamation and question marks, things began to get complicated.

She wrote this sentence on the blackboard

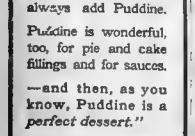
"Where are you going?"

"Now, children," she asked "which of you can tell me how to read that?"

The little eyes studied it intently, and at length one hand was slowly raised.

"Come along Alice Jones," said Miss Gibson encouragingly, "let us hear you try."

"Where are you going, little buttonhook?" declaimed the small girl triumphantly



"My ice cream is rich and good, because I always add Puddine. Puddine is wonderful, too, for pie and cake fillings and for sauces. —and then, as you know, Puddine is a perfect dessert."

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Continued

HE looked at the slim, naked, sinuous figure—an Indian girl of fifteen drinking out of cupped hands. Wild strawberry vines in full fruit bound her hair, which fell in two clubbed braids to her shoulders. A narrow breadth of faun skin fell from a wampum girdle to her knees. And from the thin metal forehead-fillet, the head of a snake reared, disputing every fang.

"It's the Lake-Serpent, isn't it?" —the young Oneida girl of the Iroquois legend," inquired Cleland.

Grismer nodded.

"That's your country," he said. "The Iroquois war trail passed through your valley and down the river to Charlemont and Old Deerfield. I read up on it. The story of the Lake-Serpent and the Eight Thunders fascinated me. I thought the thing might be done."

"You've done it. It's stunning."

"The water," explained Grismer, "flows out of her hollowed hands, but of the serpent's throat and down each braid of hair, dripping on her shoulders. Her entire body will appear to be all glimmering with a thin skin of running water. I shall use the 'serpent spot' on her forehead like a caste mark. I think. And what I want to get is an effect from a fine cloud of spray which will stream up from the back of her feet like the cloud on the water which the legend speaks of. I can get it by an arrangement of very minute orifices through which spray will rush and hang over the water in a sort of rainbow mist. Do you think that would be all right?"

"Of course. It's a masterpiece, Grismer," said the other, quietly

Into Grismer's pale face a slow color came and spread

"That's worth living for," he said.

What?"

Grismer Is Grateful

"I said that I'm glad I have lived to hear you speak that way of anything I have done," said Grismer with a smile.

"I don't understand why you should care about my opinion," returned Cleland, turning amused and questioning gaze on the sculptor. "I'm no critic, you know."

"I know," nodded Grismer, with his odd smile. "But your approval means more than any critic has to offer me. . . . There's an armchair over there, if you care to be seated."

Cleland took his glass of iced orange juice with him Grismer set his on the floor and dropped onto the ragged couch

"Anybody can point it up now," he said. "It ought to be cast in silver-gray bronze, not burnished—a trifle over life-size."

"You must have worked like the devil to have finished this in such a brief period"

"Oh, I work that way—when I do work. . . . I've been anxious—worried over what you might think . . . I'm satisfied now"

He filled and lighted his pipe, leaned back clasping his well-made arms behind his head.

"Cleland," he said, "it's a strange sensation to feel power within one's self—be conscious of it, certain of it, and deliberately choose not to use it. . . . And the very liberty of choice is an added power"

Cleland looked up, perplexed. Grismer smiled, and his smile seemed singularly care-free and tranquil:

Cleland Smiled

"Just think," he said, "what the gods could have done if they had taken the trouble to beatify themselves! What they did do makes volumes of mythology; what they refrained from doing would continue in the telling through all eternity. What they did betrayed their power," he added, with a whimsical gesture toward his fountain; "but what they refrained from doing interests me, Cleland—fascinates me, arouses my curiosity, my respect, my awe, and my gratitude that they were godlike enough to disdain display—that they were decent enough to leave to the world material to feed its imagination."

Cleland smiled somberly at Grismer's whimsical humor, but his features settled again into grave, careworn lines, and his absent gaze rested on nothing. And Grismer's golden eyes studied him

"It must be pleasant out there in the country," he said casually.

"It's cool You must go there, Grismer. This place is unendurable. Do go up while Phil Grayson is there."

"Is there anybody else?"

"Helen—and Stephanie," he said, using her name with an effort. "The Belters were there for a week. No doubt Stephanie will ask other people during the Summer."

"When do you go back?" asked Grismer quietly

There was a short silence, then Cleland said in a voice of forced frankness.

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

A BRIDE and bridegroom seldom realize that they are married until they find themselves actually enjoying their little quarrels.

When a girl says "The Lord will provide," she means that He will provide her with a husband, and thus save her from stenography.

Every man would "hit the toboggan," occasionally, if he felt that he could rely on some woman to drag the sled up the hill again for him.

When a man has to stop and think what to say in a love-letter, it is a sign that his caution has come into action—and his heart is having a reaction.

There is as much difference between an "understanding" and a bona fide "engagement," dear Heart, as there is between an L. O. U. and a check.

Souoone has said that the trouble with married people is that they get too close a view of one another, and thus lose all the enchantment and perspective which distance lends; which is practically saying that the trouble with married people is that they are married!

Simply because a man asks you if you could love him is not necessarily a sign that he wants you to. It may be merely a move for "preparedness" in case of a sudden attack.

Those "spirit communications" would be a lot more convincing to some women, if all the husbands who come back would not be so absolutely positive that they are in heaven.

If everybody in the world seems to be going against you, why not turn around and jog along with the crowd?

Success in a love-affair goes to a man's head and makes him so dizzy that he begins to wonder why such a dazzling creature should waste him self all on ONE girl!

When Hearts Are Trumps

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER LXIII.

IN all the years that Arthur Paige and his sister had lived together Cynthia had never suspected that her brother had as much executive ability as he manifested in preparing for his niece's birthday party

The day of October 15 dawned clear and bright. At Barbara's place at the breakfast table were laid gifts from her uncle and aunt.

"We are not giving you much, my dear," Cynthia explained. "For we are making you a present of your wedding clothes, of course."

Arthur had not yet appeared below stairs. Otherwise Cynthia would not have said this.

"I know," the girl rejoined, "and Uncle is giving me the party to-night Neither of you should think of doing anything else for me."

"Well, I hope the affair this evening goes off well," Cynthia observed. "Arthur has been most interested about it—actually overdoing the matter himself instead of allowing me to do it. It is foolish, I think. Yet he has set his heart upon it—for he is very fond of you—and you have satisfied his ambitions for you."

"I am sure he is pleased with me," the girl murmured

"He is, my dear, and so am I," the woman said magnanimously. "I'm sorry Arthur asked young Elliot up, but of course the boy will not come"——

She got no further, for Arthur appeared in the doorway

"A happy birthday, dear little girl!" he said heartily, kissing his niece. "And let it be that you are saying, Cynthia, about young Elliot? Do I understand that he is not coming?"

Cynthia flushed dully. "I do not know, I am sure, Arthur. I only say that he probably will not come."

"As I have received no acceptance from him, you are no doubt right, my dear sister. Nevertheless, he knows that we wanted him." Then, turning to his niece, "I see there's another parcel you have not yet opened, my dear."

A Lovely Gift

He indicated a small box near the girl's plate. It was addressed in John Brandon's handwriting.

Barbara untied the string with fingers that were not quite steady, then removed the tissue paper wrapping from a square velvet case. The lifted lid revealed a bracelet of gold links, divided by opals.

"Your birth-stone! What a lovely thought!" Cynthia exclaimed. "Of course John would have some original idea like that! He is a wonder"

Barbara studied the bracelet in silence, turning it about in her hands.

"Put it on, my dear, and see how it fits," her aunt urged.

"What are you thinking, child?" her uncle asked.

The girl did not raise her eyes as she replied.

"I was just thinking," she said, "that I have heard that opals are unlucky to wear."

"Nonsense!" Cynthia ejaculated "I, too, have heard that ridiculous superstition, but I have no faith in such stuff. You, Barbara, that you are not going to mention that senseless idea to John."

"Of course I am not," the girl returned with admirable dispatch. "That I think of a thing does not mean that he knows I think of it."

Then she snapped the bracelet to its case and sat down at the table

"It is very handsome," she remarked briefly.

"Let me see it, dear," Arthur held out his hand for the trinket

Her Uncle Is Convinced

Barbara handed him the box with the bracelet in it. John Brandon's card was in the cover of the box The words written on it caught Arthur's eyes

"To my sweetheart," he read

Barbara must have seen the card, yet it had brought no flush to her cheeks. If she had loved the man who wrote them, surely she could not have let any one else read that love-message

Arthur spoke impulsively "Did you see John's card in this box, Barb?"

"Yes," she answered. "He is very kind to me'

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Lee

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

LEE

VARIATIONS — Leigh, Lea, Atlee, Atley, Atlay, De-Lay, Lay.

RACIAL ORIGIN—English.

SOURCE—Geographical.

ALL of the family names in this group at one time bore either the prefix "atte" or "de," according to whether the original bearer of the name styled himself in the Anglo-Saxon or the Norman fashion. Often the name of the same man would be spelled both ways, according to whether the clerk or official making the record of it preferred the Norman or the Anglo-Saxon custom.

All of these family names also have come from one or the other of two sources. It is impossible to tell which, for such a variety of spellings of the two words is to be found in the old records that it is impossible to distinguish, except from the context of the writing, which was intended.

The words are "ley" or "lee," meaning a shelter, and "lea" or "le," meaning a pasture. The shelter, like the pasture, was given up to the use of the livestock. It was, in fact, the medieval counterpart of our barn or stable.

Thus, "Roger atte Ley" ("at the Ley") would have really the same surname as "Richard de la Leye" ("of the Ley"). It is easy to see how all of the modern variations of this name have developed from one or the other of the following old forms:

"Atte Ley," "atte Leigh," "atte Leve," "de la Leve," "de la Lave," "atte Legh," "de la Lee," "atte Lee," "de la Lee," "atte Lees," "de la Lea," and so on.

The medieval English were not renowned for the uniformity of their spelling, but for short words, "ley" and "lea" appear to take the prize for an astoundingly large number of spellings.

John "Leigh" or Lee, of "Agawam" or Ipswich, Massachusetts, was the first member of the Lee family on record in Massachusetts. He came to this country in 1634. At almost the same date Lees in Farmington, Connecticut, made their appearance. Three Lees, generally supposed to have been brothers, were prominent in early American colonial history, John Lee, Thomas, and Richard. The Lees of Ipswich, Massachusetts, were solid citizens, prominent in all public projects of that early settlement, as, for instance, Thomas Lee, whom the earliest records put down as a subscriber to a fund to maintain a military company for the defense of Ipswich. John Lee's gift to Thomas, probably as brother, is pronounced by the Rev. Augustine Caldwell, a gentleman, who has made extensive studies, into the history of colonial personages, to have been one of the "smartest and headiest of our Ipswich men." He was a man of means, also, leaving a fortune of 1,000 pounds, a very substantial amount for those days.

Tomorrow—Richards.

Study in Character

Robert Hitchens, the author of "The Green Carnation," "The Garden of Allah," and a score of novels of the better sort, has just completed a most unusual three-part story that he has named "The Letter." An unforgettable study in character. A place of literary craftsmanship. Imperatives lightly used, you say? Not a bit of it. We mean every word and we can prove our stand with the first of the three parts. The first part of "The Letter" will appear in the November Harper's Bazar.

SPRECKELS GEM PLOT UNFOLDED

Wealthy Coast Woman Says Barrett, Former Flier, Robbed Many Abroad

London, Sept. 24—Mrs. J. D. Spreckels, jr., of San Francisco today gave Universal Service her version of the disappearance of her jewels, valued at $150,000, in connection with which a warrant has been issued for Captain William Barrett, former member of the United States air force, and the husband of Alice Gordon Drexel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel of New York and the granddaughter of the late Anthony Drexel of Philadelphia, who left an estate valued at $50,000,000.

"William Barrett," she said, "took my jewelry, valued at $150,000, and hurriedly sold it. He left England intending that he was innocent of any intention of theft.

"I gave him the jewels, trusting him as a friend and honorable gentleman. He promised to insure the safety, yet all the time he was making preparations to leave Europe after disposing of the gems. I am not the only person he has swindled. Bankruptcy proceedings have already been started against him."

Mrs. Spreckels related the story as she was going to the country for a rest. She will sail for the United States and her home tomorrow on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria.

The bankruptcy proceedings against Barrett allege that he owes more than $50,000. He is accused among other things of stripping the fashionable apartment where he lived of antique furniture valued at more than $20,000. Two of the most prominent jewelers are reported to have claims against him totaling another $20,000.

Scotland Yard, in response to inquiries, stated that the warrant issued for Barrett in connection with the jewels of Mrs. Spreckels provides for his appearance in the Vine Street Court, London.

PROVIDENCE COAL RATION COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

Providence, Sept. 24—A meeting of the leading coal dealers and Mayor Gaines was held today for the purpose of appointing a rationing committee. The Mayor states the coal situation has assumed a serious aspect, estimates received by him showing that about forty per cent. of the families in this city are without fuel. It is planned to have the committee furnish them with enough coal for their immediate needs.

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 24—Alexander A. McGregor, of No. 146 Whitfield street, Dorchester, and Miss Ann Louise Stafford, of No. 321 Webster street, East Boston, were married at the city hall by City Clerk William J. O'Brien. The couple are spending their honeymoon at Goffs Falls.

5,170 POUNDS OF BUTTER SEIZED IN EAST BOSTON

On complaint of federal inspectors under the food and drug act, 5,170 pounds of butter was seized at the Boston Terminal Cold Storage plant in East Boston. There were 82 tubs in the lot, and it is said to be owned by Lewis Mears & Co., of South Market street. The alleged impure food was seized by Deputy United States Marshal Christopher Ghilioni on an order of the federal court.

TOO MANY SHOES CLOG CANADIAN WAREHOUSES

Montreal, Sept. 24—The Canadian demand for shoes has been satisfied and the warehouses are filled up with shoes of all styles and grade which will not sell at the present time, an authority declared here today. He said there was no prospect for finding a market overseas.

URGES USE OF METAL TO END NEWSPRINT CRISIS

New York, Sept. 24—The annual output of newsprint would be increased 4,000,000 tons a year if metal was substituted for wood in the making of shipping cases, according to Everett W. Morgan of the Pneumatic Scales Corporation. The shortage of newsprint would be relieved immediately if this plan was put into effect, said Mr. Morgan, in speaking before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

PRICES LOWER IN BOSTON

Coppers Are Lower and Packing Issues Higher; Curb Market Is Weak

Prices ruled lower at the quiet Boston opening, and the list did not alter much in that respect during the first hour. Early fluctuations were fractional in most instances. Lead averaged larger than gains. The bulk of the trading was in a few issues. Copper Hill was a weak spot at 6¾, while packing shares showed more strength than they did on Thursday. Auto accessory issues were off. Parish & Bingham and Ohio Body selling at new lows for the year. On one sale Parish & Bingham declined 3 and Ohio Body 1¾. Among stocks to reflect a point were Mexican Agricultural Chemical, International Products preferred and St. Mary's mineral land. Fractional losses were sustained by Calumet & Arizona, North Butte, New Cornelia, Island Creek, Massachusetts Gas, U. S Smelting, Ventura, Carson Hill, Eastern Manufacturing, Bigelow and Walworth.

Among issues to make small gains were Swift & Co., International Products, American Tobacco preferred, Boston & Maine and United Shoe. New Haven opened one-fourth and was soon one-fourth off.

CURB WAS WEAK.

The Curb market had a weak start, the recessional movement being general. Among the issues on the opening were: Boston & Montana, Eureka, Alvarado, Republic Navigation, Merrimac Development and Silver Reef. Mutual showed seven cents gain in its first transaction. Leaders were Merrimac Development, Arizona Tip Top and Arizona Silver.

At the end of an hour Merrimac Development was off 7 cents at 26 cents, Tip Top 1 cent at 12 cents, Boston & Montana 2 cents at 72 cents, Republic Navigation ¾ at 1⅞ and Alvarado 1¾ at 14⅜. Mutual had lost part of its gain, being up 3 cents at 35 cents.

Are Stocks Headed Up or Down?

After a decline in security prices extending over a period of nearly a year, due to industrial deflation, it is of interest to know whether the downward movement has culminated, or whether the strong rally which has recently taken place represents a bulge preparatory to a further decline.

In view of the extreme importance of this question, we have attempted to indicate the probable trend of the market over the balance of the year in an editorial appearing in our current Market Review.

This publication, which currently discusses developments in industrial, oil and mining companies, will be sent to anyone free upon request.

Steels, Coppers and Motors Show Losses, While Equipments Are Irregular Group

By W. H. ROSS,
FINANCIAL EDITOR

Stocks were heavy in the New York of the late forenoon, most of the leaders showing losses. Oils were an exception, being strong as a class. Rails and equipments were irregular and steels, motors and coppers were weak. There was no price movement in the second hour. The early rally lacked force. Tradin gwas active, first hour transactions totalling 214,000 shares. Call money opened at 7 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates were lower, speculation in sterling being demand sterling, $3.47¾, off 3¼ cents; francs, demand, .0652, off .0004; lire, 5.04⅜, off 3.06; marks, 1.0152, off .006.

Willys Overland sold at a record low price in the second hour and Colorado Southern at its highest for the year.

WEAK AT OPENING.

The market had a weak opening but a quick recovery, and within a few minutes the list was irregular as to gains and losses. General Motors and Kelley Springfield opened at record low price. Colorado Fuel & Iron and Leather common began at their lowest since 1918. Studebaker at a new low for this year. Oils were off when trading began, but within half an hour rallied to the day's highest and strongest group. Rails had a mixed start and equipments in the early hour losses. Both classes improved with the rest of the list. A number of low-priced carriers soon sold at yesterday's best prices. Baldwin led equipment issues in activity as usual. Revival of buying showed renewed strength. When business began motors and oils were the main objectives of the bear drive. But there was covering of shorts on sufficient scale to soon turn the tide.

MORE BORROWING DEMAND.

Increased borrowing demand for stocks was reported after the Stock Exchange closed yesterday and rates were 7 per cent for industrials and 6 per cent. for railroads. As a rule, traders talked of lower prices for securities this morning, but, considering the strength and prevalence of the bear sentiment, it was remarked that bears were finding it difficult to make headway. Reports were current of buying on declines, and the opinion was advanced that important interests have taken the view that it is likely to happen in business has been largely discounted and that there will be a start in short lines within a few days, but are being given stubborn opposition. Public interest in the market is said to be increasing. But it is not reflected to any great extent as yet by operations of outsiders.

BETHLEHEM FINANCING CAUSED BEAR RAIDING
By BROADAN WALL.

Registered C. S. Patent Office.

New York Stock Exchange unexpected announcement of a $20,000,000 bond issue by Bethlehem Steel Corporation upon a market already unsettled by the beginning of the automobile manufacturers' strike was the signal for attack the stock market yesterday. They did it with such vigor that they brought about substantial declines in the entire industrial list.

They evaded the railroads, and those shares were firm all day and the rallying point for the whole market in the afternoon. Very few stocks recovered the entire losses of the day, but several were rapidly rising when the market closed.

Tomorrow is the day set for beginning the British coal strike. This fact was in everybody's mind in Wall Street and caused much nervousness. Bankers in the London and Paris authorities expressed the belief that nothing of importance would happen.

FRANKLIN CAR REDUCED.

If the British coal strike is a fizzle it will have a strong influence in Wall Street, for one of the main objection begins to look like an accident, the public is inclined to take a more cheerful view of the future. Revision of last week begins to look like a fizzle. Ford prices are followed by the Franklin Company with a large reduction in price of its automobiles. Other automobile companies protest that they will not reduce prices, but as a matter of course they must reduce them. It is the independent steel companies must reduce their prices and the independent companies theirs. Even the mail order houses have reduced their prices, Wanamakers in Philadelphia and London authorities expressed the belief that nothing of importance would happen.

Warnings issued by odd lot houses against selling Republic Motor short had the effect of shooting that stock up about six points.

RAILS IN DEMAND.

According to an official of one of the largest oil companies in America, a surplus of crude oil is the sight with a reduction in prices. Petroleum products have not been reduced from the war level and the public is clamoring for a cut in gasoline. In answer to the charges of profiteering manufacturers that they would not reduce the prices, Henry Ford announced that he was in position to finance a new tire company, and would do so unless reasonable prices were forthwith. As Ford care use half of the tires made in America, this warning caused considerable excitement among the tire producers. Kelly-Springfield broke five points and U. S. Rubber about three points.

New Haven was a prominent feature in the late trading, rising to a new high price for this movement of 37¾. All the low priced rails were strong and in urgent demand. Central Leather sold down to a new low record for the year.

Refining Less Sugar

The decline in the price of sugar is said to be accompanied by curtailment of operations by sugar refiners. It is understood that none of the American Sugar Refining Co. plants is running at full capacity, and the Jersey City plant and the Franklin plant at Philadelphia are both closed Plants in Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia and New Orleans are operating at only part capacity.

MINING MICA ON AN EXTENDED SCALE

Regarding extensive mica operations in the New Hampshire hills, where it has been obtained by the old tunnel methods since 1805, it is stated that the scarcity of the material has induced such a large corporation as the General Electric Co. to operate a mine. Mica is of great importance to the electric industry and is now in demand also by companies in the tire, roofing and paper trades.

At last, it is said, a group of engineers and business men have studied the problem and commenced to produce the mica in quantities not before possible. This is done not by the old tunnel methods, but by getting the rock out from open quarries and then using modern crushing machinery to free the mica.

The primary object is to get scrap mica for grinding into powder as fine as 200 mesh. That is fine enough to float in the air. But in the operation, plate or sheet mica is obtained which is fairly more valuable. The price of sheet mica depends on the size. Pieces only 1¼ inches by 1 inches bring 40 cents per pound, while 6 by 3 inches costs $25 a pound. Such values are greater than silver.

In regard to the possibilities of the industry, it is said that a plant with capacity of only fifty tons a day, which is the size of an ordinary road crusher, would do business totalling $1,000,000 by running 200 days on rock 1 per cent. plate mica, with the latter worth $5 a ton.

The New England Minerals Co. is engaged in this industry and owns 200 acres on the Indian River at Canaan, N. H., together with a newly equipped mill for grinding. It is developing its own sources of raw material.

Liberal Toward Cattle Paper

After Vice-President Fletcher of the Fort Dearborn National, Bank returned from Washington to Chicago he said: "We were assured that Federal Reserve Banks would be liberal in rediscounting cattle paper." Federal Reserve Authorities want Western bankers to render as much loan aid as possible to cattle men for carrying stock to the next shipping period.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Sept. 24.—Trading was decidedly mixed at the opening of the cotton market, owing to favorable British crop reports, the new basis and weakness in Liverpool and reports of general cutting prices on the part of Texas operators. There was also a net decline of 20 points on nearer positions to an advance of 30 points on the distant months. Shortly after the call prices showed improvement, although the nearer deliveries failed to regain all of the early losses. Opening prices were: December, 23.30; January, 23.35; March, 22.30; May, 22.75; July, 22.50.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Wheat opened 2¼c to 3c lower. Corn was 4c to 5c lower. Oats were unchanged to 1c lower. Provisions were higher on lard and the Opening prices were: Wheat—December, 2.33 to 2.34; March, 2.25¾ to 2.26; September, 1.27 to 1.28. December, 98¾ to 98¾; May, 98¾ to 99. Corn—September, 1.27 to 1.27¼; December, 87¾ to 87¾; May, 91¾ to 91¾. Lard—October, 20.80; January, 18.20. Ribs—September, 17.50.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, Sept. 24.—The sub-treasury lost $2,150,000 in the banks on Thursday, making a cash net loss since Friday of $12,361,000.

GERMANY NEAR BANKRUPTCY

National Debt Now 242,700,000,000 Marks; Bankers Pessimistic

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Germany is drifting steadily in the direction of bankruptcy.

That conclusion which has often been expressed in the past week, is strengthened, if anything, by the statement of Minister of Finance Wirth, to a cabinet meeting called to discuss national finances.

OVER 242,700,000,000 MARKS.

This announcement that the national debt is 242,700,000,000 marks was not a surprise to those in high financial circles, but created something of a sensation, followed by pessimism with the general public.

The announcement lends to confirm the belief now held in many quarters that it would be utterly impossible to figure out any means to lighten the crushing burden. Some go so far as to say that going through bankruptcy would not be the worst evil that could befall, since it seems inevitable in the end. The bankruptcy, they say, would give Germany a new start on a new basis.

None of the bankers with whom I talked would allow me to quote his views as to the future, but without exception they were pessimistic.

BIG RAILWAY DEFICIT.

In his statement to the Cabinet Wirth emphasized that the government railway, which up to the outbreak of the war operated at an annual profit of $75,000,000, now have a deficit of sixteen billion marks; that the postal service has a deficit of two billion marks, and that the total deficit of all branches in the extraordinary budget of 1920 is fifty-five billion marks.

In addition, the claims of German citizens for indemnification of losses suffered due to the Versailles treaty total 181 billion. This includes seventeen billion for the loss

PASTOR LAUDS 'WAY DOWN EAST'

Thrilling Film Has Great Moral Lesson, Says the Rev. A. E. George

The Rev. A. E. George, one of the best known Episcopal clergymen and orators in New England, was asked to express his opinion of the photoplay, "Way Down East," in which D. W. Griffith attacks the double standard of morality.

By the REV. A. E. GEORGE

In the manner in which it weaves its moral teaching into the narrative without affecting the interest of the entertainment, 'Way Down East' is the best photoplay I have ever seen.

It is not a movie sermon, but a very enthralling entertainment, but you are getting a moral lesson just the same in a far more effective way than as if from a pulpit. You sort of imbibe wholesomeness and cleanliness without knowing it.

You go away saying, "Well, here's something well worth seeing," and you are apt to do a lot of thinking on the right track.

SCORES DOUBLE STANDARD.

Clergymen cannot offer approve unreservedly what they see in a theatre. "Way Down East" is entitled to such praise. We ministers have never approved one set of morals for a man and another for a woman, and we have always condemned condoning in a man the things which make a woman an outcast.

But somehow the eye seems to convey more to the brain than the ear and this scene will appeal more to the audience for the brutal youth who betrayed a young and innocent girl to see.

In this world the wicked do not get their punishment as surely as they usually do in the movies, but it is good to see the scoundrel in "Way Down East" receive his reward before you leave your seat.

A young country girl visits Boston in search of assistance for her unprovided mother from a wealthy aunt.

In the midst of gaiety and festivities in the elegant home of her relative she falls into the wiles of a wealthy young man who happens to have no decent principles. He wins her through a mock marriage.

When it is too late she finds out that she has been deceived, and then there comes a little baby. After the death of her child the brand of the scarlet letter is placed upon her, and her secret follows here from place to place, causing her untold misery.

SAYS FILM IS FEARLESS.

The world is cold and slow to forgive. But the man who betrayed her is received everywhere and even fondled as a proper member of society. Can this be shame, but his victim is marked.

The charm and simplicity of a New England village, and the beautiful practice of such places are most grippingly told.

And then the wonderful climax upon the icy river, a climax which makes you grip your chair, cover your eyes and shout with joy when the rescue is effected.

You can't close your eyes to the evils in society, and it is better to have them presented fearlessly and skillfully as in this photoplay, the more readily to correct them.

I do not think any clergyman could do heartily indorse such a picture. It is right and it is clean and it is wholesome.

FALSE LEADERS HIT BY HORGAN

Democrat Refuses to Accept Policies of 'Blind Followers' of Wilson

Editor American:

Although I have always been a Democrat and have been honored by the party in the past, in view of the arguments advanced by Messrs. Cox and Roosevelt, Democratic nominees respectively for President and Vice President of these United States, as well as of the attitude of the Bay State Democracy, as expressed at Springfield on Saturday last, I ask permission, through the Boston American, which upholds the league and the other vital issues of the day has done and is doing splendid work, to protest against the false doctrines which are championed by Democratic leaders.

Obviously, they are "blind followers" of the President, who autocratically assumes to tie us to the League of Nations, as now framed, despite the fact that it means "entangling alliances" and foreign questions without adequate safeguards for American rights, that it would over-ride our constitutional law, that it would trample under foot the Monroe Doctrine and that it forever denies opportunity for the right of self-determination to the oppressed peoples of the world.

The Democratic leaders are apparently blinded by English fallacies and to such an extent that they forget the pledges made to the world, wherein our chief executive assured succor to the struggling peoples in his now famous (?) fourteen points, as well as the great, vital principles of freedom which form the foundation stones of our government.

How can they reconcile Articles X, XI and XV. of the covenants of the league with those solemn pledges, sealed by the blood of our heroes, with our great principles of freedom?

Moreover, they appear to lose sight of the fact that the high cost of living is a vital issue in the campaign; that the present administration failed signally, both during and subsequent to the war, to control profiteering financiers, who wax fat and rich while the public suffers from outrageous prices and the lack of necessities continues. They have permitted exports in immense quantities of necessities of life as well as hoarding of foodstuffs while the people suffered from lack of the same.

Even today, under war-time powers, which have practically suspended the operation of the constitution, the administration enjoys autocratic powers more than sufficient to remedy these ills. How can they do it? Why utilize its powers? Is it strange that complaint and unrest exist? Is it not time, if we are to keep our obligations and assure justice to our citizens, for a change?

Loyalty to party must be subordinated to duty to country if the rights and welfare of the people are to be protected and if our constitutional law and our cherished principles are to be safeguarded against the assaults from within as well as from without our country.

For one I can no longer follow these false prophets in national matters. Respectfully yours,

FRANCIS E. HORGAN.

253 Arborway, Jamaica Plain.

MAYOR HERE TO SEE HIS NEW FILM PLAY

Louis B. Mayer, the well-known Boston producer of motion pictures, has arrived in town to attend the initial screen presentation of his first big dramatic production, "Virtuous His House," at the Exeter Theatre, Exeter street, today.

Mr. Mayer, who was a prominent theatre owner and film distributor of this city for many years before entering end of the business, has for the past two years been devoting himself to the making of pictures starring Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin.

Eight months ago he began the making of special all-star production, and "Virtuous His House" is the first. It is in seven parts and was directed by John Stahl, who has had charge of the making of film artists as Mildred Harris Chaplin, Ramon Novarro, Clarence Handyside, Elizabeth Hughes, Winter Hall and Thomas Hedrick.

On the morning of the same place Mr. Mayer plans to give a pre-view showing of his latest film, "Sweet Lavender," with Sir Arthur Pinero's famous comedy of the same name by Kathleen Norris.

Phinney, Cambridge, 1st lieutenant and battalion adjutant, 19th Infantry; Carl R. Danielson, Somerville, 3d lieutenant, Co. A, 13th Infantry.

These commissions in the National Guard were also assigned: Horace Z. Landon, Brookline, captain, Signal Corps Cadre; Edward Walker, Cambridge, 1st lieutenant, First Corps Cadre; Advil A. Fromm, Boston, 1st lieutenant, First Coast Defence Command.

MRS. HARDING SENDS "BUCKEYE" TO COOLIDGE

Through a party of Ohi oinsurance men, now in Boston at the convention, Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the Republican presidential nominee, forwarding to Governor Coolidge a "buckeye" which she received from the tree directly in front of the "front porch" at Marion. By carrying the gift in his right hand trousers pocket, Mrs. Harding said the Governor can ward off rheumatism. The insurance men, headed by R. B. Freshman of Marion, presented the Governor with a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Harding.

HAVERHILL WOMEN ENTER SCHOOL BOARD RACE

Haverhill, Sept. 24. — With 2,768 women voters registered, 14 have aspired to be listed for the city election. Mrs. C. Chase and Mrs. J. A. Currier announce their candidacy for the school board.

Mrs. Chase is a leading club woman here and Mrs. Currier is the wife of the superintendent of the Pentucket Mills. Miss Gertrude Simonds is already a member of the board.

DORCHESTER GIRL WEDS N. H. CLOTHING MERCHANT

Miss M. Christine McDonald, daughter of Mrs. Ellen McDonald of No. 28 Olney street, Dorchester, was married at St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill, to Henry B. Cluley, a prominent clothing merchant of Greenville, N. H. The couple were attended by Miss Nina Cluley of Roxbury, as maid of honor, and James H. Downs of New Hampshire as best man.

Engagement Announced

Lyonon Gordon of West Medford announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Eleanor Gordon, to Charles J. Wiggins of Medford and formerly of Arlington.

PROFESSOR KIZER SENT TO HAVANA BY B. U.

Professor E. D. Kizer is to be added to the faculty of the Havana branch of the Boston University College of Business Administration, it is announced by Dean B. W. Lord. Professor Kizer, who was for many years prominent in Pan-American affairs, is to leave for Havana on the 25th. During the war Professor Kizer was representative of the War Trade Bureau in Chile in charge of the Allied blockade. He also has been special assistant to the Department of State in Santiago and London, research assistant for the War Trade Board and author of reports to the secretary-general of the second Pan-American conference in Washington.

METHUEN GAINS 3,000 BY SPECIAL CENSUS

Methuen, Sept. 24. — Methuen officials, through a special census conducted by the school department, have given the lie to the Federal census figures. The special census shows that "Baby City" a gain of 3,000 inhabitants over the Federal census. Mayor Hutchins has conferred with the census takers, basing his contention on an enormous increase in polls since 1915 and the great influx of population from Lawrence, where tenements were unfindable.

AUSTRALIAN CHAPLAIN TO DISCUSS IRELAND

Conditions in Ireland and the "brutality" of the English soldiery will be discussed by the Rev. Thomas J. O'Donnell, chaplain of an Australian regiment in France during the war, at a meeting to be held under the auspices of the Medical Committee of the Friends of Irish Freedom, in Faneuil Hall, Sunday night.

Every Democratic Principle Repudiated by Convention

The Democratic politicians did about as the American expected at the Democratic State Convention.

It was a convention of politicians exclusively and they repudiated every Democratic principle, endorsed the League of Nations, listened to the declarations that MacSwiney was a suicide bound to the lower regions and recommended the cause of Ireland to the League of Nations, which President De Valera had recently told them was recommending Ireland to her doom, for the League of Nations, as President De Valera explained, would be the grave of Irish hopes as it is the grave of all the hopes of a struggling nation against tyranny.

These men guilty of Democratic apostasy know better. They know the difference between a Democratic and un-Democratic policy. They know the difference between right and wrong. They know that the League of Nations spells "doom" of the oppressed little countries. But the hope of office and the attenuated prospect of the election of Mr. Cox makes them not only willing, but even eager to repudiate their party traditions and American traditions just for the slim chance of party spoils. Their conduct lessens that slim chance every day.

Policemen Should Be Careful in Using Revolvers

One of our policemen on challenging a motorcyclist to stop the other day exhibited a lack of discretion and sense of proportion and the fitness of things which makes a deadly weapon in his hands dangerous. Perhaps it indicates also a lack of proper instruction from his superiors.

These are the facts. The motorcyclist kept on going when he was called to halt by the officer. The officer pursued and fired several shots at him.

Now, there are two considerations in a situation like this. Does man forfeit his life by continuing on his course when challenged by an officer to stop? We suppose the justification for any such a case would vary somewhat with the circumstances. Then there is the consideration of danger to non-participants.

Without passing judgment upon the question whether or not a man ought to be shot at who fails, for some reason or other, to stop when demanded to do so by the officer, we are quite sure that no one will justify the shooting on a crowded highway like Tremont street. Yet that was where, we are informed, the incident occurred.

Do You Know What Farmers Get for 18-Cent Milk?

This May Surprise You

The city paper which takes a delight in "ripping the farmer up the back" is a foolish newspaper, just as the farmer who believes all he reads in the inspired press about city workmen in silk shirts and automobiles is a foolish farmer.

We are moved to this comment on reading Mr. Alvin L. Dudley's contribution to the current number of New England Homestead. City people will be thankful to Mr. Dudley and New England Homestead for revealing that some farmers now are getting 5½ cents net for milk that is sold in the city for 18 cents. Mr. Dudley's article is worthy of being quoted in full. He says:

"Perhaps a few more facts and figures on milk, its cost and its returns will be acceptable to New England Homestead readers at this time. The writer happens to be one of those unfortunates who is endeavoring to eke some small part of living out of the raising of market milk. A small chapter of our recent experience is given herewith.

"We have a farm in southern Vermont from which we sell the product of our Ayrshire herd kept thereon, to the C. Brigham company of Boston. During the month of June of this year we produced 2869 quarts of milk for market, pure, sweet, properly cooled and iced, and delivered at the railroad station at Chester, Vt. This milk was from a herd of excellent animals, all registered Ayrshires that were handled and cared for in the most efficient manner possible. For the June milk we received, July 26, the sum of $157.58. This averages just 5½ cents per quart to us, delivered at the station, six miles away. Out of this we must keep our cows (our grain bill on the place for the month was over $100), pay our help, shoe our team, keep up wear and tear on equipment, pay taxes, insurance and repairs on buildings and animals and pay interest on the investment.

"Can it be done? If so, will someone please tell us how. It sounds good to read that the farmer is to get 10 cents a quart for his milk, and it impresses the city people with the idea of the prosperous dairy farmer, but when you lop off the carrying charge, the can charge, the war tax, the surplus charge and a few more charges that are resurrected and take off almost half of that 10 cents, the answer don't look so good.

"It seems to the farmer as though there is a little too much of a 'spread' between the 5½ cents we are actually receiving and the 17 or 18 cents the consumer is actually paying, and we wish someone would sort of check up on the matter and see where all that difference goes to.

"Any dairyman who has tried it knows we can't produce milk even in June for 5½ cents, and break even. If we stay in the game we've simply got to steal from some other department of the farm or run some other business as a side line, or cut off some timber to come out square. The writer has commented before on the attitude of most daily papers toward the farmers. The city papers, as a rule, take a much greater interest in ripping the farmer up the back than they do in telling the truth about him."

Bit of Refreshing Logic

According to a press dispatch from Constantinople, "a corps of 1,000 Armenians has been formed at Adana to go to Hadjin, but has not moved because it lacks arms."

In these erratic times a whiff of logic is like a breath of fresh air. The Armenians, truly, are a wise people. Having no weapons, their military corps does not move. Could anything be finer?

The news suggests a number of similar paragraphs of unquestioned wisdom which, for some reason or other, were never published. Viz.:

"Realizing that he could never enforce his Fourteen Points upon the diplomats of Europe, President Wilson decided not to take a personal part in the discussion of the Peace Treaty, but to leave the matter to representatives of the Congress."

"When it dawned upon the Premiers of Great Britain, France and Italy that the American people were not going to be dragged into any future wars to settle European boundaries they amended the covenant of the League of Nations accordingly."

Many similar unpublished paragraphs could be cited if the rest of the world were only as wise as the Armenians. Logic is implacable and inflexible. Nevertheless, so many people believe that they can jump into the river without getting wet.

Jimmy and His War Bride

Copyright, 1920, by International Feature Service, Inc.

Our hero stages a vivid military spectacle, entitled "The Night Before Waterloo." He looks quite a good deal like Napoleon at a distance. His bride had to be in the picture, too; he couldn't shake her. It was an awe-inspiring scene. Not a sound was heard except the footsteps of Barney and George, the well-known and popular sentries, as they went their rounds. But will these brave lads survive the coming battle? It depends on how fast they can run. Don't miss the next instalment. It contains an awfully gripping scene where the—

More Truth Than Poetry

One-Sided Cheer

By S. E. KISER

HOW good it is to meet a man,
Or woman, as the case may be,
Who thinks my gifts are greater than
Their gifts are who compete with me.
My work is always gladly done,
And I am sure that striving pays,
When I've been listening to one
Who tells me that I merit praise.

I MAY have cause sometimes to doubt
That what they say is strictly true;
They may not be quite clear about
The purposes I have in view.
But, even so, their praise is sweet;
The winding ways seem smooth and straight
When I have had the luck to meet
A man who tells me I am great.

HOW lightly we could bear our ills,
How easy all our tasks would grow,
How blithely we could mount the hills,
Who struggle upward from below,
If daily men and women took
The little trouble and the care
To let us know by word or look
That they were friendly and aware.

I LIKE the man or woman who
Is not too much in haste to turn
Sometimes and praise the work I do,
Thus bettering the wage I earn;
But I'm afraid that I, who find
It sweet to hear the word of praise,
Am much too often disinclined
To see that praising others pays.

WORDS AND DEEDS

The man who says "I done it" and did is several laps ahead of the one who knows that it is proper to say "I did it," but is still waiting for a favorable opportunity.

Letters to the Editor

Sincere Appreciation

EX-SERVICE MEN'S NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE OF MASSACHUSETTS (Headquarters).
September 22, 1920.

Editor Boston American:

On behalf of the officials of the Ex-Service Men's Non-Partisan League of Massachusetts, allow me to extend to you our sincere appreciation of the splendid editorial, with reference to our organization, appearing in today's issue of the Boston American.

The attitude of your publication toward the ex-service men, your fearless fight for the enactment of legislation beneficial to him and his dependents, you may well rest assured has the sincere appreciation of the ex-service men. Your vigorous and unceasing fight for the bonus, the passage of which is inevitable and whose ultimate success may be attributed in the greater part to the Hearst publications, has merited the undying gratitude of the veteran.

May we count on your assistance and co-operation in the future to the extent as you have graciously accorded us in the past, as the favorable attitude of such a publication as yours is one of the greatest assets we might hope to obtain.

GEORGE E. WILSON,
President.

Who Pays?

Editor Boston American:

I notice that the Supreme Council of the League of Nations has approved the purchase of the Hotel National in Geneva as the future home of the league. Will you kindly explain from what resources the funds are raised to pay for this purchase and other bills of the league? Does the United States government provide any part of the running expenses of the league or of its officials, and, if so, by what authority? Is this not an important question for the consideration of the voters?

Full River. ANTI-LEAGUE.

Through Side Door

Editor Boston American:

I see that Mr. Cox says that he is anxious to answer any questions relating to Ireland. I wish he would tell us by what side door he intends to present Erin's cause to the League of Nations, when the Irish-American delegation would not be allowed a hearing at the peace conference in Paris. I hope Mr. Harding will see the justice of recognizing the Irish republic and by so doing fulfil to a great extent the promise made to the American soldiers, who fought and died for liberty and justice for all, including Ireland.

MY DEAR Doctor.
YOU'RE A Crusader.
AND I'M not.
AND I'VE watched you.
AND THE only fault.
I HAVE to find.
IS THAT you work.
TO COMBAT the ills.
THAT SORE beset.
US GROWN folk.
INSTEAD OF beginning.
WITH THE younger folk.
AND TRYING to make.
THE NARROW path.
YOU'D HAVE them tread.
A LITTLE brighter.
AND ON its way.
ADD SOME of the joys.
THE INNOCENT joys.
THAT ARE the first.
TO LEAD them away.
TO THE wider path.
AND DOING that.
YOU MIGHT keep them there.
ON THE narrow path.

BUT THAT'S no matter.
AND TO begin.
WITH WHAT I want.
I'LL ASK of you.
IF YOU'LL agree.

I WANT to ask.
IF YOU'LL join me.

AGAINST THIS thing.
THAT DAILY grows.
AND IN the end.
MUST MAKE inroads.
ON CLEANLINESS.
THE NEXT of kin.
TO GODLINESS.
AND IF you will.
THEN I'LL agree.
TO GO with you.
WHERE'ER YOU will.

OLD BEAUS AND WHAT THE GIRLS THINK

By Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

PONCE DE LEON was probably the first of the Old Beaus.

The Old Beau is the fellow of middle age, or worse, who likes to knock around with young girls.

The Old Beau is a very pathetic spectacle, but he has his uses. He furnishes a lot of work for the tailors, especially those who make "young" clothing.

He gives the barbers plenty to do, what with massaging and hot towelling and pomading and the like. The manicurists profit by him.

Ponce de Leon wanted to remain forever young. The chances are old Ponce thought himself quite a fellow with the young girls of his time, until one day he overheard one of them make some disparaging remark with reference to his age.

Still Go to Florida

It started him out looking for that Fountain of Youth. He went to Florida. A lot of Old Beaus have been going to Florida ever since, especially in the Winter season. You can see 'em in droves at Palm Beach and Miami and the other resorts squiring the young girls about.

Every Old Beau, if he listens in on the chatter of the young girls, is bound to hear something sooner or later about his age. He may fool himself, but he never fools the girls. A man past thirty is an old man to a girl under twenty. Past thirty-five he is antique to a girl under twenty-five.

After a girl crosses twenty-five the age of a man doesn't make so much difference to her, but the Old Beau does not hang around girls over twenty-five.

A girl views a man from two standpoints—as a prospective husband, or as a moment's entertainment. The Old Beau is neither. He is tolerated only because there are occasions when a girl must have a male escort.

He thinks he is amusing her when he tells her of himself, of his life and struggles, and successes, or when he talks of topical subjects, politics, sporting events, and the like. As a matter of fact, he merely bores her to tears, and generally the wide eyes of apparent interest which she turns on him are summing up his gray hair and the double chin, and she is wondering how a man can live to be so old.

Jolly Time

I was talking this matter over with a bunch of young girls only the other night. I flatter myself I can make myself agreeable to young girls, being able to attune my not-too-old mind to their youthful mentality.

So we were having a jolly good time laughing at the things I said, and at an Old Beau who went past with a giddy young thing, a-flutter with ruffles, on his arm.

I left the giggling party for a moment, and returned unexpectedly just in time to hear one of them, an extra young girl, saying:

"What was that old fellow talking about anyway? Isn't he an old pest with his Old Beaus stuff? I wish some of the boys would come along."

Carry Your Lunch

(To Boston American)

I'M proud of you
And proud of your hunch
That started Old Boston
To carry her lunch.

I'M thinking the pie profits
Will dwindle a bit
If while it is dwindling
We still carry it.

LET'S carry it on.
Not make a mere bluff;
Just keep on a-carrying
Till they cry enough.

IF you still want your pie
And your sandwich to munch
Take the tip that you started
And carry your lunch.

Most Interesting

Stories, fashions and special articles crowd our pen for particular description. The November Harper's Bazar will, we confidently believe, be the most interesting issue in many months, but we cannot detain you with details. Let us content ourselves with glittering generalities: there will be short stories by G. K. Chesterton, Lucas Malet and Mildred Cram, parts of novels by Robert Hitchens and Cosmo Hamilton; special articles of travel and adventure by well-known people; authoritative fashion articles—profusely illustrated—by Lucile, by Tappe, by Steinmetz.—Harper's Bazar.

HOW EARTH LOOKS TO MAN ON MOON

By Garrett P. Serviss

WHEN the round, silvery disk of the full moon hangs in the clear Autumn sky, it is delightful to slip a few astronomical necessaries into your mental pockets and make a trip up thither to take a look at the universe from a different standpoint, and to see the earth itself as a foreign world, glowing with strange colors and turning in the sky like a gigantic school globe for the instruction and amusement of celestial children.

It would be best to lie flat on your back in the middle of a lunar plain, or on the top of a lunar mountain, for if you were in the centre of the full moon's disk you would see the sun and the earth both directly overhead and very close together. It would be "new earth" on the moog, but the earth would present an appearance such as the new moon never shows to us. We cannot see the new moon until two or three nights after it has passed by the sun, and then it appears in the shape of a crescent after sundown.

Beside the Sun

But from the moon we could see the earth right beside the sun, and it would be a marvellous sight, for the earth would resemble a great velvety black circle cut out of the sky and surrounded with a narrow ring of varicolored light produced by its atmosphere. Its size would seem stupendous. It would, perhaps, suggest the milky mouth of a mighty circular shaft driven straight through the gleaming star-beds into bottomless space beyond.

For, from the virtually airless moon the stars would not only be visible in broad day, but would be seen close around the sun, and their altitude would be amazing. They would in many places appear in vast coruscating sheets, making the heavens look like frosted silver set with coronets and circlets of astonishing gems. The sun could not put them out, because there would be no air to diffuse his rays and thus draw a curtain over the sky. But the earth would hide hosts of them behind it.

Rotation of Earth

Perhaps the most marvellous spectacle would be the rotation of the earth on its axis, startlingly visible to you from your post on the moon. The moon rotates on its axis only once a month, the same time that it takes to circle around the earth, the consequence being that to us it does not appear to rotate at all, for one side of it is always kept toward us. But the earth makes a complete rotation every twenty-four hours, and, as you would see it from the moon, it would turn an angular distance equal to the whole breadth of North America in three hours. The Atlantic Ocean would roll past under your eyes in three hours more, and in ten hours after France had passed the meridian Japan would arrive upon it.

This indescribable panorama of continents and oceans following one another in stately procession would be quadrupled in beauty and wonder by the variegated and continually shifting colors, lights and shadows presented by the different parts of the living earth, from the dazzling whiteness of the polar snows, through the greens and browns of the habitable regions, the tawny yellow of the deserts, the blues of the oceans, and the pearly hues where storm clouds were sweeping slowly over vast areas.

Smiles

"The Pridmores are nearly crazy over their new baby. She is the first girl born in the Pridmore family in three generations."

"Remarkable! On the father's or mother's side?"

"What is your idea of the best thing in the world?" he asked.

After a moment's consideration she replied: "If I were to marry a man for his money and then discover that I loved him I'd think I had found it."

"Marry," he said, "I think I'll write a book of poems and make a fortune."

"Very well, dear, but why not let the book of poems go until after you have made the fortune!"
